Persons desiring copies of the GAZETTE for distribution by mail or otherwise, are requested to give us notice before we go to press, of the number of copies desired. For want of such timely notice we have not been able for some days wholly to supply the unusual demand resulting no doubt from our full reports from day to day of the varied attractions of the State Fair now being held near the city.

OUR NATIONAL CREDIT.

Suppose the people of Pennsylvania should elect Judge SHARSWOOD. Would it not be held as an endorsement of his opinion that greenbacks are not legal tender? With this precedent before it would not the Supreme Court, as now constituted, be likely to decide accordingly? How then is the poor man, the merchant, the manufacturer, to pay his debts? The thousands of men, in this State, who have homes partly paid for, would find it inconvenient, if not impossible, to complete their payments in gold. The capitalists who hold the liabilities of the laboring masses, would have it in their power to sweep, into their coffers, title deeds instead of the dishonored greenbacks. An inflated currency is an evil inseparable from the gigantic war forced upon us by the democratic party, which now cries out against the currency. The debts contracted under that system must be paid under it, or financial ruin ensues. The rich are made richer. The poor robbed. It is quixotic to talk of Judges having no political opinions. Even if they had none, they are nominated or supported as the representatives of political opinions. Their election or defeat is an endorsement or repudiation of such opinions. Judge SHARSWOOD represents discredit to our national currency. Judge WILLIAMS represents the maintenance of our national credit, the unity of our national faith, and a steady perseverance in the course which brought national victory after years of open conflict with that class of men who are now seeking to subvert that victory by the election of his opponent. As we are gradually and steadily recovering from the financial difficulties of the war, without a crash or crisis, let us keep quietly and steadily on, and by an overwhelming majority for the man who represents this polity, say to agitators and stirrers up of monetary revolutions, "Peace! be still."

THE OMAHA AND ST. LOUIS RAILROAD.

The St. Louis and Omaha papers are urging the building of this road, and the prospect is that it will be built with the celerity which marks the construction of the Great Central Pacific, of which it will be a branch, and the talk is of completion in one year. This link, connecting St. Louis and Omaha gives Pittsburg the advantage of two routes to that railroad centre. With the Fort Wayne and Chicago, under the superior management which has characterized it for the past ten years, we have large facilities for competing with the manufacturers of New York and New England for the trade of the Great West, and with our river and railroad communications with St. Louis, a road from that point to Omaha would give us invaluable advantages in reaching and supplying the wants of the working communities which are rapidly displacing the prowling savages on those immense fields of mineral and agricultural wealth. It is expected that the counties on the line of the road, will grade and make the road-bed ready for the iron, while St. Louis and Omaha will supply rails and rolling stock. The ever active Pennsylvania Central will not likely be quiescent in this work of extending the iron arms of the East, to embrace the Pacific; and certainly Pittsburgers should not be apathetic observers of such an important opening of communications. This road brings us into double communication with both Pacific routs, and makes San Francisco about equally distant via. Chicago and Omaha, or via. St. Louis and Omaha, or St. Louis alone.

TELLING TALES OUT OF SCHOOL.

The St. Louis Times is troubled that Radicalism is not yet dead, and says "it is a mistake to consider radicals weak. They have the means to fire the Northern heart and stir its blood to fever heat, and fearlessly they will use them. Accounts of riots, mobs, arsons, murders, committed in the South upon loyal men will flash incessantly over the North." Would it not be a good plan for the Democrats to stop the riots, mobs, &c., as the very best plan of stopping the accounts and so weakening and finally killing this pestilent radicalism which will tell tales out of school? Cut off the supply of outrages and the accounts must cease.

THE Home Journal gives its readers a long article on "Sexual Assimulation," in which it says: "Female physicians are multiplying; civil offices are filled by women; occupations which have hitherto been considered exclusively masculine, are usurped by them; they become painters and sculptors; they pop the question, and institute proceedings for divorce; they look forward to the female millenium of suffrage with an assurance that makes it a foregone conclusion."

THE cholera still rages in Italy. A correspondent at Rome states that the malady carries off those attacked in a very short time, and leaves their corpses almost of a black color. In Albano the cholera is worse than ever. It has broken out at Malta, and the merchant vessels touching at the port refuse to communicate with the shore. The disease is also raging at Teheran, in Persia.

A NEW explosive powder, called Haloxylin, has recently been invented, which is claimed to present numerous advantages over other blasting compounds. It neither ignites spontaneously or explodes under friction or percussion, and gives off neither deleterious gases nor blinding smoke. The inventors are two Austrians.

THE Tribune says if Mr. Johnson is prepared to withstand the entire North with the aid of the Maryland militia he is more of a fool than a knave. Would the well organized and armed militia of the States lately in rebellion let Mr. Johnson and the Marylanders stand alone in a struggle for Southern supremacy?

A CARD, published in Montgomery, Ala., representing ninety-six women and children, says the United States Government has ceased to give them rations, and they are suffering for the necessaries of life.

TWENTY-SIX members of a base ball club were made dangerously ill, at Troy, N. Y., by drinking milk into which two of the club had put croton oil.

NORTH AND SOUTH GERMANY propose to unite under a military and commercial compact.

A STANZA FOR ANTIETAM.—
[Impromptu.]

Antietam's sacred by the blood,
Of patriot hearts in crimson flood,
Poured forth with stainless flow.
Antietam's desecrated now!
When Johnson makes his traitor bow,
And Swann his puppet-show.
R. S. MATHEWS.

Sept. 17, 1867.

THE Macon (Ga.) Journal says Mr. Johnson's Amnesty Proclamation is a "brutum fulmen." The Mobile Advertiser is far from pleased, but says "We'll not look a gift horse in the mouth." The Memphis Bulletin says:

"It having taken President Johnson two years and a half to rise in this matter of grace, from Colonel to Brigadier General, and there being three grades still above Brigadier General, in about seven and and a half more the terrible gestation will have come to an end, and we shall all be pardoned by another gracious master, whoever he may be."

Other Southern papers give it grudging approval, and the President has little success in meeting the expectations "my policy" raised in the defeated rebels.

Frederick Douglass Gives His Brother and Family a Home, After a Bondage of More than Half a Century.

The N. Y. Independent editorially says: Mr. Douglass resides at Rochester, in a Republican district, which we hope to see him representing in Congress.

Lately he has been performing an act of brotherly affection, which we cannot resist the temptation of chronicling—even at the risk of making public a portion of what was meant to be wholly a private letter:

"I have been," he writes to the editor of the Independent, "keeping a kind of hotel all summer! My poor brother Perry—after a bondage of fifty-six years, deeply marked by hardships and sorrows of that hateful condition, and after a separation from me during forty years, as complete as if he had lived on another planet—came to me two months ago, with his family of six, and took up his abode with me. To him—dear old fellow!—one who has carried me on his shoulders many a time, (for he is older than I, though my head seems to contradict it)—one who defended me from the assaults of bigger boys when I needed defense—I have been mainly devoting myself, and gladly so.

"I have now completed for him a snug little cottage on my own grounds, where my dear old slavery scarred and long lost brother may spend in peace, with his family, the remainder of his days. Though no longer young, he is no sluggard. Slavery got the best of his life, but he is still strong and hopeful. I wish his old master could see him now—cheerful, helpful, and "taking care of himself." If slavery were not dead, and I did not in some sort wish to forget his terrible hardship, blighting curses and shocking horrors, I would try and write a narrative of my brother Perry's bondage. But let the old system go! I would not call its guilty ghost from the depth into which its crimes have cast it. I turn gladly from the darkness of the past to the new and better dispensation now dawning."

We know not how others may be touched by this narrative, but to us it is deeply affecting. It is another proof that truth is stranger than fiction. It is poetic justice rewarding hope deferred. Frederick Douglass is a true, great and noble man, with a mind fit for a Senate, and with a heart fit for a child. When hundreds of the prominent men of the country are dead and forgotten, his name will be remembered. And when his life comes to be written, it will hardly contain a more beautiful and romantic chapter than the pleasing story which we have just borrowed from his graphic pen.

GENERAL NEWS.

—It is announced by the Army and Navy Journal that General George B. McClellan will sail for the United States in the steamship Persia some time in November. The General is still in Switzerland.

—It is a singular fact that ladies who know how to preserve anything else, can't preserve their tempers. Yet it may easily be done on the self-sealing principle. It is only to keep the mouth of the vessel tightly closed.

—The drama of Norwood, founded upon Mr. Beecher's Ledger story, was produced at a Buffalo theatre recently and made a complete failure. Somebody will be dramatizing one of Beecher's sermons next.

—There is to be a novel celebration at Jay Peak, Vt., on the 26th. The principal attraction will be the rolling of a rock, estimated to weigh one hundred tons, down a perpendicular descent of one thousand feet.

—The grasshopper legions are reported to be gradually moving across the State of Iowa in most destructive style, and are said to be within ten miles of Des Moines. These plagues, the local papers say, devastate a country worse than an invading army.

—On August 31st the London Times contained obituary notices of seven persons, whose united ages amounted to 596 years, giving an average of nearly 85¼ years to each. The oldest was a lady who had reached 92 years; the youngest, a man 82 years old.

—The Cretan insurrection, as we supposed, has not been suppressed. The Greeks say it continues as vigorously as ever; and, that not only is Greece giving the Cretans important aid, but Russia is also on the point of openly assisting them.

—The disease of which Sir Frederick Bruce died we suppose was diptheria. He was well when he arrived at Narragansett; but exposed himself to the chill night air, sitting on the rocks and watching the sea, after being heated with exercise.

—In English factories, during the half year ending with the close of April last, there were 2,390 accidents. Forty-four of these cases resulted fatally, and more than six hundred persons had fractured limbs, or else had to have them amputated.

—Grant is on the right track—economy. If he "fights it out on that line" he will receive the thanks of the people. Nothing is so much needed just now in national affairs as economy. Turn out all sinecures, drones and other parasites, and chop down the appropriations.

—The Rev. James Fraser, in his report to the English Government, on the common school system in the United States, says: "It is no flattery or exaggeration to say that Americans, if not the most highly educated, are certainly the most generally educated and intelligent people on the earth."

—The contest for female suffrage in Kansas waxes warm. The opposition declare that "every scoffer at the marital relation, and every advocate of the doctrine of 'affinity' is a most active supporter of the cause." This is not very philosophical as an argument, but it is good for numerous blockheads.

—An old fellow living in the interior of Crawford county, Indiana, it is said, who had been much troubled by the nocturnal depredations of the boys, lately put poison in some melons, which two boys "hooked" and partook of. One of the boys died before reaching home, and the other is in a critical condition.

—The Texas Jimplecute says: "'What does that mean—Jimplecute?' Jimplecute is a compound word, derived from jimple and cute. Jimple is a corruption for simple, and was originally applied to sophomores or the 'wise fools' of colleges, but is obsolete any where except in Texas."

—The fifty thousand Allin breech-loaders ordered by the War Department from the Springfield armory are nearly completed, and work is slack. The monthly returns of officers whose commands have used the Allin gun are unanimous in praise of its efficiency, and of the accuracy and efficiency of its fire.

—Nothing could be better than the speech of a Mobile barber, whom a number of ex-Rebels lately offered him $2,000 to run for Congress: "Gentlemen, if I sell myself, I sell my people; "if I sell my people, I sell my children." If anything half as good was said at Anteitam the other day, we shall be glad to record it.

—The Chief Mabba, who for six years has been a scourge to the native tribes on the West Coast of Africa, died recently. He was a usurper, having killed the native king, and with fire and sword promulgated the Mohammedan faith. It is computed that no less than twenty thousand human beings have been killed, or have died through starvation, or have been abducted and sold into slavery by this monster.

GARIBALDI.

The Arrest Ordered by Victor Emanuel

ARMS AND MUNITIONS SEIZED.

Garibaldian Volunteers Made Prisoners.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

FLORENCE, September 24.—Gen. Garibaldi was arrested to-day near a small town named Azevalvaga, Ga., by order of Victor Emanuel. His intention and designs were made known to his adherents, and consequently to the King's government in this city, by the circulation amongst the revolutionists of inflammatory addresses, dated from Arrego on the 22d. The issue of these papers placed Victor Emanuel in a difficult position. By the recent Convention with France, under which the French troops evacuated Rome, he is bound to maintain the Papal territory free from fillibustering, coming from Italy. The King replied to Garibaldi's address by a royal proclamation, circulated also on Sunday, in which he denounced the Garibaldian movement, cautioned his subjects against aiding or taking part in it, and declared his resolve to arrest and rigorously punish any of his people who disobeyed him, as well as others arrested on the soil of Italy, engaged in crime against the law of nations. By virtue of this proclamation Garibaldi has been arrested.

The Italian Cabinet, under the premiership of Rattazzi, is determined to prevent invasion of the Papal territory by Garibaldians, or Party of Action Men, and also to preserve from violation the articles of the Convention of September 15th, with France, and other treaties guaranteeing the integrity of the Papal domain. Gen. Garibaldi, in pursuance of his plans against Rome, was, on Monday last, at Sinigaglia, sixteen miles northwest of Ancona. Here the General was summoned by Italian authority, and under and by virtue of the king's proclamation, in the name of the law, to retrace his steps. Garibaldi at once refused and was immediately arrested by the officers of the crown and conveyed, after a short delay, to the Fortress of Alezzandra. The arms and war munitions intended for the use of the Garibaldian troops were seized on the frontier. The Italian volunteers who formed the Garibaldian ranks were also made prisoners by agents of the king. Intense excitement prevails.

It is understood the State Department is by no means despondent about obtaining a fair settlement of the Alabama claims, although it may be hindered and delayed by the death of the lamented Bruce.

DETROIT, MICH.

Letter from Senator Howard—The Threat of the Washington "Union"—Congress and the President.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

DETROIT, September 25, 1867.

The Tribune of this morning publishes an interesting letter, understood to be from Senator Howard. In referring to the threats of the Washington Union that Senators who have declared their convictions beforehand shall not sit in judgment upon President Johnston, Mr. Howard says: It is generally understood that the Union is under the patronage and control of Mr. Johnson and his immediate advisers, and that in view of the military preparations now going on in Maryland and other border States, such threats can hardly be regarded as merely for Buncombe, but that the original purpose of the President to attempt violence upon Congress has become deepened and intensified under the malign influence of his private advisers.

Mr. Howard continues: Congress will do their duty firmly and regardless of these revolutionary preparations. Let him be sure of that and it rests with the people and the army to protect them in so doing. If rebels and rebel sympathizers have not yet enough of strife and blood, they can, in my poor opinion, become easily satisfied by stirring up Johnson to assault Congress by military violence, and indeed I am not sure that in the long run, such a mad attempt would not, as leading to a final and conclusive suppression of the rebellion, and of rebelism, by the condign punishment of their fomenters, be a decided benefit to the Government and the nation. There must be a final decision at some time. Perhaps it is the will of Providence that Johnson's madness shall hasten it.

NASHVILLE, TENN.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

NASHVILLE, TENN., Sept. 25, 1867.

The newspaper controversy, between Major James D. Walker and Colonel J. Albert Smith, ex-Federal officers, from Indiana, culminated this morning in a pistol fight in the billiard room of the Stacey House. Walker was the attacking party, and received three wounds, one through the left lung, one in the shoulder, and the other in the high. It is thought he cannot survive. Smith is unhurt. He was arrested and bailed in the sum of eight thousand dollars.

The apprehensions of a riot at the municipal elections, felt for a week past, is much quieted by Grant's order to Thomas. If carried out properly, the election will be peaceful. The city authorities feel assured that they will be permitted to hold the election as provided by the charter, whilst leading Radicals are of the opinion that General Thomas will not assume to decide the question, but act upon Governor Brownlow's decision and thus sustain the franchise law. Probably both parties will hold an election and let the Courts determine the question. General Thomas is expected to-night, when General Cooper, Commander of the militia, will consult with him. The latter expects to have six hundred militia men here on Saturday, one Company from Jackson having already arrived. Four disbanded companies have been recalled to service, but with plenty of federal troops under Thomas, no collision need be feared. The Mayor has telegraphed to Washington, asking that more definite instructions be given to Thomas.

THE ARREST OF GARIBALDI.

FLORENCE, September 25—A. M.—When it became known here that Garibaldi had been arrested and imprisoned in the Fortress of Alezzandra, his partizans in this city were greatly exasperated, and appeared in the streets in crowds, and made turbulent demonstrations of sympathy for their leader. The manifestations finally developed into a riot, but the disturbance, though threatening, was suppressed by the prompt action and firmness of the Government. All the volunteers of Garibaldi, who had gathered at various points on the Roman frontier, have been compelled to disperse and retire by the Italian troops.

ANOTHER PROCLAMATION FROM THE KING.

Arrival of General Sheridan—Enthusiastic Reception—Grand Military and Civic Procession—Buildings Along the Route Illuminated—The General Greeted With Immense Cheering—Union League House Brilliantly Lit Up—No Speeches Made—Banquet With the Mayor and City Council—The Formal Reception on Thursday.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 25, 1867.

General Sheridan arrived in a special train from Baltimore at six o'clock. He was received by Mayor McMichael at the depot, and while waiting in the reception room for arrangements for the escort he was introduced to the members of the Select and Common Councils. There were no formal speeches. The General was accompanied from Washington by two of his staff and Senator Cameron.

All being prepared, Gen. Sheridan was conducted from the depot and took a seat in a barouche with the Mayor and General Cameron, amidst tremendous cheers from the crowd filling the streets. A salute was also fired. The military escort consisted of the city troops, National Guard, Grey Reserve and the Fire Zouaves. There was also a large turn out of the Republican Invincibles, with torches, and twenty fire companies, with their apparatus, brought up the rear.

Many dwellings along the route were illuminated, and the Union League House was brilliantly lit up. Over the central door was the name of Sheridan, and other portions of the front were decorated with stars and inscriptions of "Liberty," "Washington" and "Union," all in gas jets. Along the pavement about twenty crippled soldiers, from the Soldiers' Home, were stationed, and as the General passed they let off fire works. He was enthusiastically cheered along the route, and on approaching the Continental Hotel the applause became deafening. The barouche was driven to the side door of the hotel and an entrance effected with little difficulty.

Shortly after, the General and the Mayor made their appearance on the front balcony, from whence a view of the procession as it filed along Chestnut street was obtained. The General was received with cheers from the firemen in the line and the spectators filling the street; and this continued until the companies all passed.

The General responded to the cheering with bows, and finally bidding the crowd be still, lingered good night, and retired.

There were no speeches. The General partook of a banquet with the Mayor and City Council. Senator Cameron was also a guest. As this was a private entertainment no reporters were in attendance. The formal reception by Mayor McMichael takes place at noon to-morrow, at Independence Hall.

Sheridan in Baltimore.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

BALTIMORE, September 25.—Gen. Sheridan as he passed through on his way to Philadelphia, was escorted from Camden to President street depot by a Committee of City Councils and citizens in carriages, passing down Baltimore street.

Amusements.

OPERA.—We have already announced that Madame De La Grange and Sig. Brignoli with a combination of other stars, will give two and only two grand operatic representations in this city, and we can now inform our readers that the renditions of the most popular compositions of "Rossini" and "Donizetti"—viz: "Barber of Seville" and "Don Pasquale," will take place at the Academy of Music, on the evenings of the 2d and 3d of October. No singer that has ever visited this country was more highly appreciated or left it with more general regrets on the part of the people, than Madame Anna De La Grange. It is now eight years since her voice was heard in the United States and we are confident she will be greeted with the same enthusiasm that was every where manifested on her former visit. The spring of 1858 was the memorable year that this splendid artiste appeared in rapid succession in the following operas, in all of which she was considered unrivalled, viz: Barbiere, Lucia, Ernani, Puritani, Norma, Don Giovani, Trovatore, Lucia, Linda, Somnambula, the Prophet Semiramide, Lucretia, Wm. Tell, Martha, Luisa Miller, in all of which she was considered without a rival. While absent in Europe, she has visited Brazil, where she was crowned in the Imperial Opera House, was honored by royalty with evidences of the highest appreciation in Madrid; was esteemed unrivalled in Milan, and ranked as a star of the very highest magnitude in Paris, at the Opera Italiens, and was the principal favorite of Her Majesty's Theatre in London, for two seasons. The people's favorite, the accomplished Tenor Signor Brignoli, has been engaged to assist in the two representations, with other artists well known to fame. See advertisement. We hope our people will show their appreciation of Pittsburgh having been selected for the lady's first appearance since her return, by crowding the Academy.

OPERA HOUSE.—This highly popular and fashionable place of amusement was well filled last night with a large and delighted audience, intent upon witnessing that attractive four act drama, the "Streets of New York." The piece was well put upon the stage and the various parts performed in a style that elicited frequent rounds of applause from the auditory. To-night the "Ticket of Leave Man" will be produced, an announcement which of itself is sufficient to crowd the house.

PITTSBURGH THEATRE.—It is scarcely necessary for us to state that a delighted throng welcomed Griffin & Christy's Minstrels last night, and the brief time we had to spend in witnessing their delineations of negro characteristics, warrants us in saying, that they excel in many respects any troupe now traveling. There will be a change of programme nightly, and all who desire to spend an hour pleasantly and profitably should not let the opportunity to visit them pass without being taken advantage of.

VARIETIES THEATRE.—The fund of amusement furnished at this favorite resort has the effect of filling the house to repletion. The old, the young, the grave and the gay can always find an agreeable entertainment at the Varieties.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC.—At this beautiful place of amusement, to-night, Beethoven's Grand Oratorio, "Christ on Mount Olivet," will be produced in a style commensurate with the worth of this most musical production. It will be given under the direction of Mr. P. Paehringer, formerly of Grover's Grand Opera Troupe, and will doubtless draw together as large a part of the music loving community as was ever congregated upon any similar occasion in our city. A few seats remain unsold, tickets for which can be had at Kleber & Bro's. music store, Wood street.

MASONIC HALL.—As on the previous evenings of the exhibition, of the beautiful Panorama of the Life of Abraham Lincoln, hundreds wended their way to Masonic Hall last night. As a work of art it cannot be excelled, and the fact is that scores who have witnessed it once do not rest satisfied until they see it a second time, is as strong an evidence of its merit as a work of art, at once interesting and instructive, as possibly be urged in behalf of any similar production extant.

Something In It.

A very discreet person, who rarely does anything except upon due reflection as to the right and wrong of it, and never buys or sells or buys on impulse, but only on his judgment, remarked to us that he had upon careful consideration of its policy, determined to direct his family, hereafter, to make their purchases exclusively from storekeepers that advertise their wares in the newspapers. The reason assigned for this, to which we thing has something in it, is that large numbers of purchasers are led by seeing the advertisements to that class of stores, and all who are thus led are sure to be better informed as to quality and prices than those who do not read the papers, and of a consequence the merchants whose customers are of the reading class will pay no more for his goods than he knows an intelligent customer will readily pay; whereas the storekeeper who makes no use of the newspapers, seeks no new customers, and is content with such patronage as can be derived from a few old acquaintances or friends, must necessarily charge larger advances on cost to cover expenses. Besides his non use of the papers denotes a want of enterprise. He will replenish his stock once or twice a year, while his more active competitor will be constantly in receipt of fresh goods of the newest styles.

There is surely "something in it," and if the merchant will select the GAZETTE as his medium for advertising, we think he will agree with our friend that there is a great deal in it.

Third Ward, Allegheny, Thoroughly Organized.—A meeting of the citizens was held on Tuesday evening at the office of James McBrier, which was largely attended and Block Committees appointed to canvas the ward for the purpose of having out all voters on the day of election; and resolutions were adopted pledging the ward for the usual majority. The meeting adjourned to meet on Friday evening, the 27th inst., at the School House.

JAMES MCBRIER, President.
A. H. ENGLISH, Secretary.

A Suspicious Transaction.—A young man named A. D. Connel, was arrested by the Mayor's police yesterday upon a charge of attempting to steal some one hundred and fifty dollars in money, from a trunk at the boarding house of Mrs. Milner, on Second street. He attempted to secure the coveted money through the agency of a lad by the name of John E. Morgan, who exposed his plans. He protests his entire innocence and alleges that he will be able to establish it upon a hearing to-day.

Correction.—We stated yesterday that a dog belonging to one of our city Aldermen had been shot the evening previous on the public highway. We have since learned that the "dorg" referred to did not belong to the aforesaid magistrate, but was inferred so from the fact that the shooting was done in the immediate vicinity of his office, and that the animal was similar to the one owned by him.

Heavy Robbery on the Street Cars.—At a late hour last night a man who gave his name as William McDowell, left word at the Mayor's office that while on one of the street cars, on his way from the Fair grounds to the city, he was robbed of a pocket book containing between two and three hundred dollars in greenbacks. Having no idea as to who committed the theft, the police could not render him any assistance in his misfortune.

Visited the Jail.—His Excellency, Gov. Geary, visited the county jail, and other public institutions, yesterday, in company with Sheriff Cluley, Col. John H. Stewart, Hon. P. C. Shannon, Gen. James S. Negley, and other prominent citizens. The old "War Horse," as he was familiarly termed by the brave boys of the old Twelfth and Twentieth Corps, expressed himself highly pleased with the manner in which affairs were generally conducted.

The Governor.—His Excellency, Governor John W. Geary, paid a visit to the Court rooms yesterday, and after paying his respects to the presiding Judges, visited the Penitentiary, in Allegheny. He was shown through the entire building, after which he visited the Fair Grounds.

The Conspiracy Case.—The jury in the Moffitt-Thompson conspiracy case returned a verdict of guilty. A motion for arrest of judgment and reasons for a new trial, were filed. The defendant's counsel claim that the indictment was defective.

CITY AND SUBURBAN.

THE STATE FAIR.

On our Fourth Page will be found this morning a full and interesting account of the State Fair.

THE CAMPAIGN.

Republican Meeting at Hare's Hotel—Tremendous Outpouring of the Loyal Masses—From 5,000 to 10,000 People in Attendance—Speeches of Governor Geary, Hon. Galusha A. Grow, of Pennsylvania, and R. Stockett Mathews, of Maryland.

The meeting in front of Hare's Hotel, Liberty street, last night, was one of the largest campaign meetings ever held in the county, and the enthusiasm exceeded anything witnessed on a similar occasion. At an early hour in the evening the people began to assemble, and at half past seven o'clock, the hour appointed for the meeting, the streets within a square of the Hotel were a solid mass of men, and the crowd continued to increase until the meeting was organized, when there were at least five thousand persons present. It was arranged for the speakers to occupy the spacious balcony, which was tastefully decorated with flags, and illuminated with gas lights and lanterns. The Great Western Band had been engaged for the occasion, which they enlivened with their excellent music. At seven and a half o'clock William N. Ogden called the meeting to order, and nominated the following gentlemen as officers:

PRESIDENT—Hon. J. K. Moorhead.

VICE PRESIDENTS—James Reese, Col. Wm. Phillips, James Reed, John R. McCune, Richard Thompson, Jared M. Brush, Saml. Barclay, Lewis Kramer, Thomas J. Simpson, August Slemmyer, John Fulton, Thos. Steel, J. M. Faas, Dr. J. W. Shaw, Dr. S. M. Benham, W. J. Radcliff, Wm. Little, Florence Kramer, W. H. Barker, H. B. Stoller, John P. Pease, James Park, John Chislett, John H. Hare.

SECRETARIES—William Espy, J. S. Monroe, James W. Mackrell, J. Willis Dalzell and the Reporters of the Press.

The Chair in a brief address, introduced HON. GALUSHA A. GROW.

FELLOW CITIZENS—For four years your country shook with the tread of armed men; three hundred thousand brave hearts found a home in the grave, three hundred million of treasure was expended, to save the country from destruction. In '61 Abraham Lincoln was constitutionally elected President of the United States, and no sooner had the news gone forth than there was an appeal from the ballot box to the cartridge box, by a portion of the people. To-day we arraign the Democratic party before the public bar of public opinion, charged with the consequence of this terrible war and as false to the country in her time of need; false to every principle of Republican Government. If you turn over the keeping of this Government to this party, it is destroyed for ever. Remember that although the boom of the cannon is no longer heard the clash of small arms is still resounding throughout the land, in the differences of opinion which now distract the nation, and threaten its destruction. The same great questions are to settle at the ballot box this fall that were fought for and decided in the late rebellion. You have fought the battles of your country, and it is you who have the right to say when those whom you have conquered shall be admitted to the rights of citizens; you have already tendered them terms more reconcilable than reason dictates, and they refused them. The fruits of Andrew Johnson's policy is the New Orleans massacre, and the strife and discord that now exists throughout the country; he to-day asks you to restore the rebels to power without requiring them to give evidence of having repented of their sins. Instead of coming as did the prodigal son, in meekness and submission, they come back and shake their fists under "Uncle Sam's" nose and say, "why the devil don't you kill the fatted calf?" Fellow citizens, you have given the rebel a key to his prison door, and told him to walk forth; if he refuses, whose fault is it? What do you lose by his refusing to accept the terms you offered him and come back? Why you simply lose the benefit of his wisdom in assisting you to make laws for your government—nothing else. The Copperheads are the only losers, because they lack votes to help them into power, and they are the only mourners.

We must have civil governments in the South, and if the white men refuse to accept our terms and form governments for themselves, the black men will have to do it.

The war was the result of slavery, and it was but a just retribution on the South for her sins. When you tendered terms to them and they refused to accept them, let them stay out. The rebel depended on his Northern ally, the Copperhead, for succor, and after the Presidential election in '64, when they saw the weakness of their dependence, they laid down their arms and cried for mercy. They tried to beat you in the field and failed; they tried it at the ballot box and failed; and they are now trying it in the Judiciary and they will also fail there. We want no such men on the Supreme bench as Roger B. Taney. If true to yourselves, standing on the graves of half a million of the brave soldiers and surrounded by as many more weeping widows and orphans, you dare not allow those principles for which so much blood was spilled to be torn from you. [Cheers.]

GOVERNOR JOHN W. GEARY.

Governor Geary was next introduced to the audience, by Gen. Moorehad, and was received with prolonged and deafening cheers. When the enthusiastic multitude were quieted, the Governor proceeded to address the meeting substantially as follows:

FELLOW CITIZENS OF PENNSYLVANIA:—It affords me pleasure to see so large and respectable a meeting. We have met here to-night for the purpose of discussing and taking council on the great issues now disturbing the minds of the citizens of this great nation. You will perhaps be called upon to decide whether a base, bad man, who happens to be at the head of the Government, or a Congress, elected by the loyal people of this glorious nation, shall make laws for you. This bad man says he will be dictator or king, in defiance of Congress, and if he persists in this course, and attempts to break down the government, I tell you as sure as you are men I will call on you as citizens of Pennsylvania to assist in hurling this usurper from his seat. It was necessary in the progress of events for the government of the United State to raise armies to protect herself against her enemies, and there were men in Pennsylvania who said that the government had no right to raise armies; there were menhigh in position in the state who could not find a place in the constitution under which you could coerce a state; Judge Sharswood declared that the government had no right to issue paper money and make it a legal tender. A more terrible stroke could not be made against the country than the decision of Judge Sharswood had it been carried out, and from these references you can see the importance attached to the election of a Supreme Judge. The character, record and reputation of Henry W. Williams is unblemished. He stands before you a loyal man. (Cheers.) I hope to see rolled up from good Old Allegheny county an increased majority from the whole regularly nominated ticket of the Republican party; I stand upon the platform upon which I was elected, and I add to it the platform upon which Henry W. Williams was nominated for my own guidance. I hope no side issues will come up; I have heard of a Workingman's ticket here. I have been a workingman, and knew what it is to work, but I am for my country before myself. Stand by your ticket or you will lose your country. I don't intend to tire you to-night. We have work to do and we must do it. The speaker detailed his experience at the Antietam Cemetery dedication, and said that the spirits of the dead soldiers of Pennsylvania were insulted on that occasion. The Governor excused himself, stating that he had to meet a Convention of the G. A. R., and there were other able speakers who would claim their attention for a time. He thanked the audience for their kind attention, and was about to retire when the following special telegram from Philadelphia, announcing the arrival and reception of Gen. Sheridan in that city, was handed him, which he read to the meeting:

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 25, 1867.

Gov. John W. Geary, Monongahela House, Pittsburgh:—The reception of gallant Phil. Sheridan has been one of the grandest ever witnessed here. Such an outpouring of the people has not been seen since the morning the news of Lee's surrender was announced. The flag waves from almost every house top, fire-works are visible in all directions, cannon are roaring, and the streets are almost impassible along the line of march. Many houses, too, are brilliantly illuminated, and the centre of the city presents a beautiful sight. The procession was miles in length, and was composed of firemen, military, Grand Army of the Republic, municipal authorities and citizens, an immense crowd walking on the side walks from the depot to the hotel, cheering as they walked.

The members of the glorious Union League have been foremost in their efforts and expenditures to make the reception creditable, and have succeeded admirably. And we all say God bless them and our beloved guest. Their headquarters was one blaze of light.

Sheridan, with Senator Cameron and the Committee of City Councils, arrived in a special train at six o'clock. He was escorted by the city troops, Grey Reserves, National Guard and a large delegation of firemen, comprising twenty companies with apparatus,—also by Republican Invincibles and other organizations with torches. On arriving at the Continental Hotel, Gen. Sheridan, Mayor McMichael and Senator Cameron, made their appearance on the balcony and reviewed the passing procession and were hailed with cheering, which continued until the General finally bid his enthusiastic admirers good night and retired. No speeches were made. He is entertained at private entertainment at the Continental and will be formally welcomed to-morrow at Independence Hall by Mayor McMichael.

After the Governor had finished reading the dispatch from Philadelphia, and the terrible enthusiasm attending it had subsided, the Chairman introduced

R. STOCKETT MATHEWS, ESQ.

Mr. Mathews entertained the meeting for an hour and a half with one of the ablest, most eloquent, forcible and telling speeches we have ever had the pleasure of listening to. Notwithstanding the audience had been standing for a long time, he so charmed them with his eloquence that not a man left the ground, and we really believe they would have been there yet had the speaker continued to address them. We regret exceedingly that the want of space prevents us from publishing his remarks in full. It would be doing the gentleman injustice to make a synopsis of it, as it would be impossible to embody the beauty, force, and eloquence of it, in such, as to convey to the reader any idea of his wonderful power. He will address the meeting at Allegheny to-night.

At the close of Mr. Mathews' remarks the meeting adjourned.

Destructive Fire in Collins Township—Twenty-Five Thousand Dollars Worth of Property Destroyed.

On Wednesday afternoon, about three o'clock, a very destructive fire occurred in Collins township, nearly opposite Sharpsburg, which resulted in the total destruction of a fine mansion owned and occupied by Mr. Tweddell and family. It appears that some of the attaches of the household were engaged in an outbuilding making soap, when the fire from the furnace, by some unfortunate mishap, communicated to the contents of one of the caldrons, and in a few moments the entire apartment was enveloped in a sheet of flame. From thence, the destroying element reached the main building, which, being a frame, was soon destroyed, leaving no vestige of the former handsome structure, save a few burning embers to mark the spot, where but an hour before it stood an ornament to the neighborhood. The building contained a large number of elegant paintings from the studios of our most celebrated artists, and an extensive mineralogical selection, the loss of which is irreparable and greatly to be regretted. The Doctor is extensively engaged in the oil trade, and many of the specimens were from the oil producing regions of this and other States. He estimates his loss at twenty-five thousand dollars; whether there was any insurance or not we did not learn.

Bold Attempt to Rob—A Philadelphia Pickpocket Caught in the Act.

A gentleman named R. B. M'Clure, residing in West Middletown, Washington county, visited the city yesterday for the purpose of attending the State Fair, and entered a car at the grounds last evening, about six o'clock, on his return to the city. The conveyance being crowded at the time, he was compelled to stand, and had been aboard but a few minutes when he felt a suspicious movement about one of his pantaloon pockets. Putting his hand to his pocket, he found that of an individual who stood next to him, drawing therefrom a portmonie, which he suddenly dropped on the floor. Mr. M'Clure seized the fellow and held him until they arrived in the city, when he handed him over to Capt. Graham at the tombs. Upon being searched, four skeleton keys, recently made, and with the wards filed out, together with fifteen dollars in money, were found on his person. He gave his name as George Rodgers—an assumed one doubtless—and stated that he hailed from Philadelphia, and had been in the city ten days, refusing to tell his lodging place. He is an old hand at the "knucking" business, no doubt, and had he succeeded in this attempt, would have been the gainer to the amount of sixty dollars, the sum which the coveted book contained.

Doctor Sargent's Medicines.

More than thirty years ago Dr. Sargent kept a drug store in Allegheny City. The Doctor was known and esteemed for his great moral worth, and as a quiet, unostentatious, but judicious man of business. The Doctor, knowing that most of the proprietary medicines then in use were compounded from cheap and adulterated ingredients, could not honestly engage in the sale of such. To obviate the difficulty and to supply his customers with safe and efficient remedies for all ordinary ailments adapted for general use in families, he compounded from pure ingredients various pills and syrups, and for some years has continued to increase his manufacture to meet the growing demand for his medicines, which were constantly gaining popular favor until, without effort on his part, the fame of these preparations has extended beyond his expectations or intentions. The Doctor has grown old and weary of the tax on his time and strength, and wishing to retire from so much activity and labor, has disposed of his proprietorship to Mr. George A. Kelly, a well known druggist of this city—esteemed also for his integrity as a merchant and his skill as a Pharmaceutist. Mr. Kelly is young and enterprising, and is prepared to manufacture the Sargent medicines on a scale commensurate with the growing demand for them. The enterprise is in good hands, and will be vigorously prosecuted, and prove successful. For more about these medicines see Mr. Kelly's advertisement in another column.

Dunseath & Haslett.

Visitors at the Fair as well as our friends at home are specially directed to the fact that the enterprising and fashionable jewelers and opticians, Messrs. Dunseath & Haslett, No. 56 Fifth street, have just received a very large addition to their stock of desirable goods peculiar to their line of trade. The purchasing has been made direct from the leading importers and working jewelers of the country, and the stock will be found very attractive. The jewelry department embraces rich, plain, elegant and fashionable articles of personal adornment, silver wares, plated wares, gold headed canes, clocks, fine gold and silver watches, music boxes, and other general goods. The optical department is stocked with best quality spectacles, eye glasses, opera glasses, microscopes, thermometers, barometers and all instruments for testing fluids. The stock of barometers is very large and many range at prices astonishingly low, so that everybody should be in possession of one. Farmers cannot overestimate a truthful indicator of the weather, and but a trifling investment at this establishment will secure him such an instrument as will soon prove true and faithful in performing accurately its important duty. We urge on our readers a purchasing visit at the establishment of Dunseath & Haslett.

Meeting in Allegheny.

The Republicans of the Fifth ward, Allegheny, held a meeting at the public school house, corner of Fayette and Chartiers streets, Wednesday evening. It was organized by calling John Heath, Esq., to the chair, and appointing Alexander Patterson, Esq., Secretary. The chairman stated the object of the meeting to be that of organization. The following committees were appointed:

Finance—S. J. Ray, J. A. Reed and S. S. D. Thompson.

Vigilance Committee—S. J. Ray, George Parkin, W. Fitzsimmons, Henry Palus, Jos. McClelland, John Heath, J. A. Reel, S. R. Davis, Aug. Buemiller, E. J. Wilkins, Wm. Hagey, B. F. Jennings, S. S. D. Thompson, R. F. White, M. G. Clark, James Simpson, J. G. Herr and Alex. Patterson.

The Vigilance Committee are requested to meet at the School House, corner of Fayette and Chartiers streets, on Friday, the 27th inst., at 7½ o'clock. Punctual attendance is desired.

Accident.

An accident of a serious nature happened Mr. Evans Thomas, an employee of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, on Tuesday evening, while he was returning from the Fair. He was a passenger on car 32 of the Citizens' Passenger road, and as it was crowded, had to stand on the outside platform. A car coming the other way struck a carpet sack in his hands and jarred him to the ground, and he fell with his right leg under the wheels. He was terribly shocked and was dragged out insensible. Dr. Brashear was called, and discovered that the leg was broken badly in two places near the thigh. He set the limb successfully, and the man was conveyed to Mercy Hospital, where, at last accounts, he was doing well. The accident happened in front of Mr. Gardner's drug store, in the Ninth ward.

Grand Larceny.

On Monday night last or at an early hour on Tuesday morning, a trunk belonging to a young man named Wm. Smith, who boarded at the house of Mrs. Sloss, in the First ward, Allegheny, had his trunk broken open and thoroughly ransacked. It contained besides other articles of value a silver watch valued at twenty-five dollars and some sixty dollars in money, which were carried off. Immediately after the discovery, a fellow boarder by the name of Layton Graham disappeared, and has not since been heard of. Information of the theft was made before Mayor Morrison and warrants were issued for the arrest of the accused, whom it is hoped will be brought to justice.

Insane.

At a late hour on Tuesday night, an officer arrived in this city from Johnstown, Cambria county, having in charge a young colored man named George Jenkins, who is laboring under a severe and long continued attack of insanity. The unfortunate individual formerly resided in Allegheny City, where he has friends residing, and disappeared suddenly last spring, from which time up to his arrival here as stated, nothing could be heard of him. He served faithfully with Sherman in his "march to the sea," and gave no evidence of insanity up to the time of his discharge from the service. He was placed in the tombs, and will be transferred to Dixmont to-day.

Fatal Accident at the Allegheny City Poor Farm—Coroner's Inquest.

An accident, which resulted in the death of an infant child, occurred at the Allegheny City Poor Farm on Tuesday last. It appears that Annie Schickel, aged two years, whose friends reside in Duquesne Borough, was playing at one of the entrances to the farm, the gate of which had been carelessly left improperly secured. While thus engaged the gate slipped from its tender fastenings, and falling upon the child, injured it to such an extent that it died soon after. Coroner Clawson held an inquest yesterday, when a verdict in accordance with the facts was rendered.

More About Consolidation.

MESSRS. EDITORS: The coterie or ring who engineered the consolidation act through the last Legislature, have crowned their labor of love for the benighted taxpayers by issuing a pamphlet evidently intended to throw such a flood of light on this vexed subject as to extinguish all further opposition to it. This pamphlet closes with an array of tax tables wherein the city taxes are placed in a very favorable light. To accomplish this, the tax for City Hall and the business tax have been quietly ignored. It is to be hoped that the Tax Collector will make the same omission. These wise men inform us that, inasmuch as the City Hall tax will only be temporary, and that the business tax, being only collected from manufacturers, merchants and dealers, it does not at all affect the community at large, and hence should not be taken into the account. The number of years it will take to pay off the debt which is about to be incurred for the City Hall, to say nothing of the other improvements contemplated, time alone will answer. Of the business tax we can speak more explicitly. The writer of this article holds a receipt for over six hundred dollars collected from him for that purpose, that been we added every dollar of this tax to the price of the merchandise we sold, we labored under the belief that the consumer paid this same business tax, and not us, although it may not appear on his tax receipt. Another instance worthy of notice in this pamphlet is the favorable aspect of the City School Tax, in comparison with the school taxes of some of the country districts. But it should be borne in mind that we have been heretofore heavily taxed for city school purposes. That we have now possessed of elegant, permanent and commodious school edifices, only requiring the annual means to carry them on, while in the districts in many cases new school houses are now, or have lately been erected, or are being enlarged or otherwise improved, requiring what, in the language of our pamphlet, is only a temporary tax, for that purpose. We do not attempt to deny, however, that in some cases the school tax levied for some of the townships would require very much explanation to satisfy the taxpayers. Take, for instance, the township of Oakland, where there has been a school tax of 26 mills assessed, and for what purpose, if not to play into the hands of the consolidationists, we are unable to state. A tax of 26 mills on the assessed valuation of Oakland would realize about $14,000; besides the school district is entirely out of debt, and has some $2,000 on call, as their proportion of the Pitt Township School Fund. Here we have $16,000 to meet the expenses of a single school house, in good repair, and having only an average attendance of about 250 scholars. The writer of this article, who has had some experience in the management of public schools, does not hesitate to say that $3,000 would be an ample allowance to meet all necessary current expenses for year of this school. What is to be done with the remaining $14,000, the taxpayers neither know or have they been consulted, as far as our knowledge goes. Is it for a new school edifice or a Hotel de ville? At all events, it will be seen from the foregoing remarks that, for ordinary school purposes, a tax of about 8 mills would be quite ample for Oakland township.

OAKLAND TOWNSHIP.

The Road to Health.

The sweeping assertions of many persons are calculated only to awaken surprise, and to fill the mind with doubt in regard to the cure of many, so considered, fatal diseases. Not so with Dr. Keyser, whose anxious care and ardent devotion to the profession of medicine, has enabled him to surmount the most difficult barriers in the way of that science. His investigations into the normal and diseased state of the lungs have enabled him, with almost unerring certainty, to prognosticate the probable termination of those once fatal diseases. After an experience of over twenty-five years, nearly twenty of it in this city, he ought to be entitled to at least that consideration and confidence which the labors of that many years would seem to inspire. If men will carefully look into the matter of which we write, there are very few who will not be compensated for all the time occupied in doing so. For we are entirely satisfied that there is a subject of greater importance to sick men than the proffer of a medicine which is calculated to restore health. If we speak the truth, it is worthy of all consideration to any one in quest of health, and that we do speak the truth, let any one try the remedies we have made so prominent, and we need not blush for the result. If those who have well read our articles, they will find remedies spoken of that will appropriately rush into their minds when the occasion for their employment becomes necessary. Three-fourths of the diseases of the lungs and their auxiliary organs, could be cured at the onset of a cough, which is merely an outside manifestation of an inward disease, by the use of DR. KEYSER'S PECTORAL SYRUP. The other fourth of Pulmonary diseases could be cured, when not advanced to a fatal stage, by the use of DR. KEYSER'S LUNG CURE, a remedy for coughs and lung diseases of a chronic and long standing type. Let those interested take heed of this advice, and make the enquiry of any one who has ever used these remedies, and judge of them according to the evidence thus obtained. No two remedies were ever compounded, for the cure of lung disease, equal to Dr Keyser's Lung Cure, and Dr. Keyser's Pectoral Syrup.

Sold by the gross, dozen or single bottle, at Dr. Keyser's Great Medicine Depot, 140 Wood street.

DR. KEYSER'S CONSULTATION ROOMS for lung examinations and the treatment of obstinate diseases No. 120 Penn street, from 9 A. M until 4 P. M. D&W.

To Invalids.

DR. J. W. SYKES, Resident Specialist for Pulmonary and other Chronic Diseases, 191 Penn street, Pittsburgh, Pa., offers to invalids the advantages derived from sixteen years' constant (and exclusive) attention to a limited range of diseases, and an experience embracing many thousand cases.

Dr. Sykes' system of treatment consists in SELECTING FOR EACH CASE THE REMEDIAL MEANS BEST ADAPTED TO ITS CURE. Neither depending on any single remedy, however valuable, nor treating every case according to some single idea or "Theory," new or old.

His patients have the benefit of every new discovery and theory of value. TURKEY—ITALY.

When a coat gets old and ragged, and the material of which it is made, rotten, it is of no avail to mend it. If an attempt is made at repairing, the consequence will be a new rent near the seam, and a useless expenditure of labor.

The politics of Europe are in an analagous condition. They are old, threadbare and rotten, and the task of the unfortunate tailors engaged in keeping them decently patched, is a thankless one. Hole after hole appears with wonderful rapidity. Eagerly as the diplomats ply their needles they cannot prevent fresh rents from appearing daily. Bad odors arise from these crevasses—odors of such disgusting character that they offend our nostrils even after their long purifying trip over the bottom of the Atlantic Ocean. It is this very odor that makes European statesmen so anxious to patch the holes up. They fear that the nations of the Old World may become convinced of the necessity of applying a radical cure to the evil, and clean the Augean stables to the bottom, by letting the irresistible current of a mighty revolution pass through it.

At some places the political garment of Europe is even more rotten than at others, and such spots display patches of the most ludicrous appearance and variety. Look at Schleswig-Holstein, look at Luxembourgh, at Spain, at Poland, at Turkey and at Italy. Some of these places have new patches already, others are just receiving them, and a few present such a threatening aspect that needle and thread are kept in readiness to be applied at a moment's warning.

Laying our similes aside, let us for a few moments look at the conditions of the two last named countries in good earnest. Really, it is a serious aspect, that meets our eye. On the eastern border of Europe; there, where ancient HELLAS once developed the greatest perfection of classic lore, we see a savage, or at least half-civilized nation holding the fairest portion of that continent. Once fearful to christendom by the terrific onset of its countless hordes, it is now simply suffered to remain, because its possessions are a fatal boon of contention, and because the heirs cannot agree about the distribution of the property.

But it is not merely suffered to remain. It is, also, suffered to persecute with subtle cruelty a noble race of Christians, the worthy descendants of Athens and Sparta, who, driven to despair by the increasing tyranny of their oppressors, have tried in vain to shake off an unbearable yoke. Loudly their supplicating voice echoes through Europe to awaken sympathy perchance, but not to enlist assistance. "Hush your cries," was the response of Christian Courts. "Hush your cries, or you may draw us into a whirlpool, out of which we might never be able to save our crowned heads." Thus the bloody work in Crete went on. Thousands of Turks paid the penalty of death for their obstinate attempts to re-conquer the island; but thousands of Candians also died the death of heroic martyrdom. At last the conflict ceased from sheer exhaustion on the side of the brave islanders; but while they were still engaged in their last convulsive efforts a spectacle was presented to Europe of which the eighteenth century ought and will be ashamed as long as annals record the deeds of man. Leaving his harem and Seraglio, the Sultan of the Turks—in other words, the embodiment of all their savage cruelty, intolerance and superstition—goes to Paris, London, and other capitals of Europe to do penance for the sins of his people and their ancestors—No! he goes there to receive such homage as was never before paid to a foreign prince; to be feasted and flattered and courted—and this at the very time his troops were extinguishing under their heels the last spark of liberty burning on that unfortunate island.

Not only the princes but also the nations of Europe have prostituted themselves by the vile adulation paid to fanatical barbarity. NEMESIS is sure, and an unerring and an awful punishment will follow in the wake of this unnatural crime. And when it comes, will we wonder? Will we even pity the victims which its fury scourges? No, we may shrink from the sight of the punishment as we shrink from the sight of the act; but we shall not wish to stop the hand of avenging justice. Turning from Turkey to Italy another spectacle meets our view, not so revolting but equally exciting. We see a nation awaking from a long sleep of moral degradation, a nation desirous of virtuous rewards, but prone to vicious conduct. We see a man, rising from the ranks of the people, who desires to be a king, and a king playing the role of a popular leader, who scarcely deserves the appellation of a man. Carried to the throne of Italy by the mighty stream of national enthusiasm he now attempts to stem the very current to which he owes his greatness. Successful in his mean attempt on the national idol at Aspremonte, he now has enacted a second treachery of like character. Let him beware! The tables may turn, and a ball like that which crippled the noble hero, may find its way, in the rush of civil convulsion, to his own heart.

Italy has entered an era of stupendous magnitude. If properly guided it may secure the prestige of ancient Rome; if misguided, it will run into the ocean of past ages never to return. Really, if the Italians lose this chance; if they allow the minions of their King to foil the designs of their hero, they deserve nothing better than to be a nation without nationality, the serfs of a wavering King, the tools in the hands of a foreign potentate, who aspires to the character of arbiter of the world, merely to reduce this world to slavery.

But no! We can not, we will not, believe that the Italian nation will so far forget itself. Its degradation of centuries cannot so totally have destroyed in them all sense of honor, as to allow their only great man to become a prey of his dwarfish but numerous enemies.

THE ravages of yellow fever in Texas are frightful. Several villages are nearly depopulated. Up to the 14th 1,054 deaths were reported in Galveston out of a population of 22,000.

THE DANGER OF THE HOUR.

The signs of the times indicate a new appeal to arms by the once defeated rebels, if the coming elections encourage Mr. JOHNSON in pursuing his policy of placing the Government once more in the hands of Southern statesmen. Men may laugh at the omens of danger; but so we laughed at the mutterings which preceded the outbreak in '61. It appears impossible for Northern men, with thoughts and hands full of business, to understand the chemical combinations in that labaratory of Satan, the brain of an idler. If the father of mischief finds work for idle hands, the place in which he contrives it is the idle head. The ruling class of the South is a community of idlers. There labor is a disgrace, and the loafer is the gentleman. The only work that is respectable is "walloping niggers," and the community of men who have been educated down to the standard of whipping old women, and fancying themselves chivalry, are capable of any conceivable madness and folly. These men are, by the reconstruction policy of Congress, brought to the alternative of work or want, and their only hope of re-establishing the ancient order of things is another appeal to arms. Let President JOHNSON give them the apology of fighting for the Union, in suppressing Congress, let him bring the prestige of the old Government, her treasure, munitions of war, and such portion of her army and navy as he can control, to the aid of the 200,000 paroled rebel army, and what would they not dare to regain their lost supremacy? The darling project of Mr. JOHNSON's life is to re-establish the South as masters of the Republic. To maintain their rule he broke with the Davis conspirators in '61. He foresaw that going out of the Union was distruction to the Southern cause, therefore he remained in it, feigned devotion to the Northern idea that he might win the confidence of Northern men; and deliver the bound Sampson into the hands of his pusilanimous foes. He has waited and watched his opportunity. Hitherto the voice of the people has frightened the conspirators back to their holes before they had proclaimed their purpose; but let that voice give an uncertain sound, and they will instantly claim it as an indorsement of the policy which has been sufficiently foreshadowed, in the speeches and organs of the President, to give color to such construction.

As the Pennsylvania Reserves sprang to the rescue of the Capital when the triumphant rebel hordes chased our armies across the Potomac, as, time and again, they placed their breasts a living wall, a solid rampart between their country and her deadliest peril, so let them rally once more; and with the ballot, as with the bayonet, defend her from an equal peril at the hand of a reeussitated foe.

Do not laugh at the danger. Mr. JOHNSON has pronounced your Congress unconstitutional and illegal in a variety of ways. His organs have threatened to suppress it by force of arms. Keep silence now and suffer a seeming indorsement of his views, and what may you expect?

Pennsylvania, border State, old Keystone, stand to your guns! Is your abatis well planted, your sentinels awake and at their posts? The enemies of the old flag, those who bore the stars and bars over many a fratricidal field, are before you, in hostile array, the cause for which your comrades died is in the rear; and let not posterity say you slept during the closing battle of the war.

SENATOR WADE AND THE LABOR QUESTION.

As the Democracy are busy prosecuting one of their camelion-colored dodges in their attempt to array the laboring men against the Republican party, we give an extract from a speech of Senator WADE at Cincinnati on the 21st inst.

"Now, sir, if my political life is good for anything it is because I have been laboring for the laborer, and for nobody else; (applause,) and I intend to make that appear, seeing they have challenged me on the labor question. This will compel me, in a very few remarks, to speak upon so unimportant a subject as my own course in politics—a subject which I never touched before, and I would not now unless I was challenged to it by your leading and able paper. Now I asserted, and I again assert, that I have been a laborer—yes, I have labored upon a canal, helping to construct the great canal leading through the State of New York. It was the proudest period of my life, for I performed my duty well, and my employers never found fault with what I did. I labored with Irishmen there, and I could handle the shovel about as well as any them. If I forget the condition of the poor laborer, I hope I shall be cut short in my political course. I have felt, as that editor insinuates, the stings of extreme poverty. I know the hardships of the man that earns his bread by the sweat of his brow. I never, sir, in any position of my life, have divested myself from his condition, and I have the strongest desire, if it were possible, to take such a course as would elevate and render easier that dreary life of much trial and self-denial.

I have told you, and I tell that paper, that I never yet have forgotten my old companions, or those working in the same vocation to-day. In all my public life, I have had their welfare constantly on my mind, with a settled determination, if it were possible for me to do anything to elevate them or render their condition easier, I would not fail to do it. I was the first man that moved to abolish the accursed system of imprisonment for debt, which operated so very hard upon poor laboring men, and I got a great many enemies for doing so. I was also first and foremost, in this State, to increase the amount of property that a man might hold for his family, independent of the rights of a creditor; and when I got into Congress, bearing in mind this same great principle, about the earliest efforts I made there were to get through that body the Homestead bill, so that a poor man anywhere might go on to the rich land of the West to make him a homestead and have it, because he would take it and improve it; and on every other occasion, I will say to that editor, I have not been unmindful of my duty, and I wish he would not be of his.

What was the condition of the country at the time the great Republican army was organized? One-fifth of the entire laboring population of this nation was trampled beneath the heel of power, reduced to mere chattles, and it was impossible to make labor respectable. One-fifth of the entire mass were treated no better than slaves. It was idle for the legislator, it was idle for the philanthropist, it was in vain for anybody to endeavor to elevate the laborer to that high position which, before God and man, he is entitled to to-day, until you had rescued this great population from the contempt and ignominy and hardship to which it was subjected."

GEN. SICKLES.—It is highly gratifying to General Sickles, and to the Congress and loyal people whom he represents, that Governor Orr fully vindicates his conduct in the discharge of his duties in South Carolina. In his letter to General Sickles he says:

"I desire to express to you the great regret which I feel personally and officially at the course taken by the President and his advisers in this matter."

Could there be stronger testimony to the mischievous and meddlesome nature of the policy which is constantly making war on the laws of Congress, and the officers appointed to execute them? If Mr. Johnson and his democratic Northern advisers would stand aside the radicals, even the most extreme, could come to terms and amity with the Southern people. They are radical. They staked life, property, all, on the issue of arms; and know that common sense and common honesty demand that their conquerers should exact security for future peace. Their leaders would accept the situation, comply with the requirements of the victors, and soon become partners in the Republic, if these meddlers ceased to hold out the hope of their again assuming the reins as rulers and dictators.

ENGLAND is sending troops to India to replace the Sepoy regiments to be sent to Abyssinia. The Sultan permits the English to enlist volunteers in Arabia to join the expedition.

FASHION.

As the the general tendency of the press literary, scientific, commercial, political and religious is to teach the ladies how to dress and when to dress, and to give information as to who was dressed, and when and where and how, we should be deemed old fogy to neglect the grand theme, and so inform our readers, one and all, made and female, clerical and lay, that "a new method of wearing the hair promises to achieve quite a vogue, and avoids the use of the chignon. It is accomplished by simply braiding the hair, and then taking it out suffering it to fall in a frizzled or thickly waved mass, tied at the top with ribbon or velvet, the bow and ends of which fall among the masses. It is very effective, particularly for ladies whose hair is rather short."

Also, furthermore, and especially, that "'Bronze' straw bonnets and round hats, have, ere now, commenced flooding the villages and towns all over the country, and they will be seized with great avidity as a new fashion, until it is found out that the color is dreadfully unbecoming, that the bonze comes off on the face and fingers, and leaves, after a short time and a little exposure, only a very shabby brown bonnet.

It is quite impossible, however, to prevent people generally from being caught by glitter, and so the bronze hats and bonnets, the gold bronze leaves, the bright metallic flowers, and the glistening beads and spangles, may be expected to have a run.

But, after all, the bronze brown is nothing to the new color candidate for popular favor, the 'fire' brown, which literally darts out tongues of flame.

How a woman would look in a bonnet of this 'fire' colored material, ornamented with leaves and berries to match, it is impossible to conceive; it might be like an immense box of lucifer matches all taking fire at once, or like the top of Vesuvius just after an explosion, or a blast furnace in full operation on a dark night. She certainly would look like anything but a gentlewoman that a man would feel like making love to, and paying the bills of, for the rest of his natural life."

A woman with the frizzed hair and "blast furnace" hat would certainly be attractive in the last degree.

GENERAL NEWS.

—One or two messes of dry wheat bean is said to cure "slobbers" in horses.

—Lighting rooms with gas is unfavorable to the growth of house plants and the preservation of cut flowers.

—At Lyndon, a man sold his wife and children to another and started for Utah. The purchaser is still pleased with his bargain.

—The Princess (late Empress) Charlotte has recovered, almost wholly, from her lunacy. She has not yet been informed of the death of her husband.

—William H. Pritchard, of St. Louis, has brought a suit against Burton Abell, Collector of Internal Revenue, to test the constitutionality of the income tax.

—An Ohio editor refused to speak to the toast, "woman," on the ground that woman was able to speak for herself, and any man who undertook to do it for her would get into trouble.

—If you have a screw rusted into wood, or a nut or a bolt that will not readily turn, pour on a little kerosene and let it remain. In a little while it will penetrate the interstices so as to be easily started.

—An old farmer near Lynchburg, Va., has had a standing bet of ten dollars with a neighbor for the last thirty years, that it would rain on the first Saturday in August of each year. During the time he has won twenty seven out of the thirty bets.

—The New York Gazette gives a sickening account of the universal nastiness of the kitchens of hotels and restaurants in that city of gild, glitter and dirt. Would it not be a good rule for patrons of such places to demand admittance to the kitchen and pantry, and by letting in the light scare away the rats and roaches?

CATAWBA WINE.

I am this day in receipt of one hundred cases of this Wine, which I can recommend to the public as the purest article ever sold in this city. It is, without exception, the finest and most pleasant tasted wine in use. Try it, and be satisfied. For medicinal purposes this is no humbug preparation, got up to exhilerate and drown one's difficulties in the mazes of intoxicating excitement.

VIGOROUS VITALITY.

The best defense against disease is a vigorous vitality. Disease is simply a struggle between the life-power and the invisible enemies that assail it; and the result depends upon the relative strength of the antagonistic principles. In proportion to the vigor and energy of the physique and the constitution, is their capacity to resist and fight off the morbid influences which produce sickness. It is a well known fact that active poisons affect in different degrees the weak and the strong. The dose of opium or of arsenic that will suffice to kill a child will scarcely sicken a stalwart man. It is the same with the aerial poisons which produce epidemic and endemic fevers, dysenteries, fluxes and the like. Their effect upon the system depends upon its power of resistance. Augment, therefore, this resistant power, if you would escape these evils. The tonic agent necessary to effect this object has been provided in

HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS,

A vegetable invigorant of surpassing potency. Fortify the body, increase the vital strength of every organ with this great herbal invigorant. Remember that it strengthens without unduly exciting the animal system.

CURE OF FISTULA.

DR. KEYSER: I write to thank you for your kindness and scientific management of my disease, for which I called to consult you some time in January last. You will remember that I had a complication of diseases which finally ended in a terrible fistula, which had been advised to "let alone" on account of a harassing cough, which it was feared might fasten on my lungs. I knew that the popular mode of treating diseases like mine was by a cutting operation, which, if successful at all, would naturally throw the disease upon the lungs or some other vital organ, on account of the suddenness of the cure and the immediate check to a discharge which I was constrained to believe was a salutary provision of Nature to get rid of some morbid condition in the system. I feel perfectly satisfied that your method of treatment, purifying to the system, and local applications to the fistulous part, must cure, if anything could, without cutting, which I find it did, and I am happy to report myself well in every particular, with sounder and better health than I have had for years. I would also add that the applications you made were almost painless, and have left me a new man, with all the energies and vigor of restored health.
Yours, gratefully, C——.

DR. J. SARGENT'S
FAMILY MEDICINES.
DR. JOHN SARGENT'S
Anti-Dyspeptic and Liver Pills,
A CERTAIN CURE FOR
Liver Complaints, Dyspepsia, Bilious Attacks, Jaundice, Sick Head-Ache, Colds, Costiveness, &c.

THE EXTRAORDINARY AND increasing demand for my ANTI-DYSPEPTIC AND LIVER PILLS, has induced me to make them more public, in order that their usefulness may be more extensive, and would earnestly beg of those who have tried other medicines and not experienced the relief they anticipated, to try, for once, SARGENT'S ANTI-DYSPEPTIC AND LIVER PILLS. There are no other Pills yet compounded which have given such universal satisfaction, nor do any other Pills meet the requirements of the household as do these.

I cannot, of course, enumerate the diseases for which these Pills are beneficial, but whenever a cathartic is necessary, they will effect a speedy and permanent cure. They remove from the blood all corrupt humors, which are always the cause of the disease; they open those excretory vessels which empty into the bowels; they give a healthy action to the liver, enabling it to throw off all corrupt humors; they promote the secretion of bile, aid digestion, purify the blood, and will, in a short time, restore the body to a state of sound health.

DYSPEPSIA.—This distressing malady—so prevalent in our country—is caused by a want of tone in the stomach, the usual symptoms of which are as follows: A pain or uneasiness upon pressure below the sternum or breast bone, sometimes attended with sour eructation (water brash or heart-burn;) a disposition to vomit, flushes of heat preceding from the stomach, instantly circulating through the whole system; loss of memory; a variable, uncertain appetite; great depression of spirts, inclining to melancholy; weariness and antipathy to exercise.

It is seldom that all the above symptoms are found in the same patient at one time; any of them, therefore, is a sufficient indication of the presence of the disease and need of this medicine.

DR. SARGENT'S ANTI-DYSPEPTIC AND LIVER PILLS, never fail in curing this disease, when taken according to the directions.

I attach a few of the many certificates I could give in such a form as I hope will be satisfactory; but all the certificates I could publish will not inspire half the confidence that one trial will give.

FROM DR. JOHN BUTLER.
LOWELLVILLE, TRUMBULL Co., O.—DR. J. SARGENT—Dear Sir: I regret your want of attention in keeping me supplied with your Anti-Dyspeptic and Liver Pills; they sell so fast in my drug store. I have been using them in my practice also, with the best consequences. I find them the most efficient of any pills I have ever used. I have been frequently astonished at the large amount of bile removed by so small a quantity of pills given. I request you to send me a fresh supply immediately, as I have been sometime without. JOHN BUTLER, M. D.

STEUBENVILLE, OHIO.—DR. SARGENT—I write to request you to send me a box of your Anti-Dyspeptic Pills by mail. I have not been able to get them since I left Allegheny. I cannot do without them; they have done me so much more good than any other medicine I ever used. I hope you will send some down to our druggist, so that I can get them when I want. I am sure they will sell fast if known. Your compliance with the above will oblige yours, respectfully,
JANE WARLOW.

ROCK POINT, BEAVER Co., PA., February 21, 1866.—DR. SARGENT—Dear Sir: After suffering for two years with Liver Complaint, attended with bad cough, and trying several remedies, I was induced to try your pills, which relieved me immediately, and I take pleasure in recommending them to all suffering from these complaints. Very truly, yours, D. D. MORLEY.

ROCHESTER, PA., 1867.—DR. SARGENT—I consider that I owe my life to the use of your pills. Before I began to use them I was going down very fast. My physician had done all he could, and I still got worse; but when I began to take your pills I got better, and I have no need of the doctor. I am now seventy-five years of age.
ABRAHAM WALKER.

This is to certify that I have used Dr. Sargent's Liver Pills in my family for the last two years, and I consider them the best medicine I know of.
J. M. DEVINNY.
New Brighton, Pa., July 1, 1867.

DR. SARGENT'S ANTI-DYSPEPTIC AND LIVER PILLS can be had of all Druggists—both sugar coated and plain. Be sure and call for Dr. Sargent's Anti-Dyspeptic and Liver Pills, and take no other.

DR. SARGENT'S
COUGH SYRUP,
COUGHS, COLDS, INFLUENZA, CROUP, DIFFICULTY OF BREATHING, ASTHMA, QUINSY, PHTHISIC, ACUTE AND CHRONIC BRONCHITIS, NIGHT SWEATS, BLEEDING OF THE LUNGS, AND ALL DISEASES OF THE LUNGS, THROAT AND CHEST.

DR. SARGENT'S COUGH SYRUP contains nothing injurious, but can be taken by the smallest infant with perfect safety. It does not dry up a cough as most of the quack preparations do that are now flooding the country, but loosens the phlegm from the mucous surface of the Bronchial tubes, and assists its expectoration, at the same time allaying the cough and relieving all pain from the chest and lungs.

DR. SARGENT'S COUGH SYRUP is of incalculable benefit in Whooping Cough, subduing it in a few minutes, and speedily effecting its radical cure; and for Croup or Hives it is the most efficient and reliable remedy ever yet discovered—one dose taken according to directions often saving the life of the child.

Sold by all Druggists and Dealers in Medicine. Buy a bottle and give it a trial.

Diuretic or Head-ache Pills, FOR ALL DISEASES OF THE KIDNEYS AND BLADDER.

These Pills have now been before the public in this neighborhood for upwards of thirty two years, during which time they have been eminently successful in the removal and cure of these dangerous and troublesome diseases, which often baffle the skill of the best Physicians. This fact is well attested by the number of wonderful cures they have effected, some of long standing. A sense of duty and the urgent request of those who have experienced the beneficial effects of the medicine, impels me to make it more generally useful, by giving it a much wider circulation. Believing that there is no other medicine published for these complaints that can be carried to every man's door without the aid of a physician, and it is a well known fact that there are thousands who are either too far removed from or are unable to procure the aid of one who will be of service to them.

The disease commonly called Back-ache, and to which these Pills are peculiarly applicable, is found to exist in the aged or infirm, the laborious and the sedentary, is caused by obstructions or chronic inflammation of the kidneys, ureter, bladder, &c., and is known by a deep-seated pain in the small of the back, sometimes extending round the loins to the abdomen; or a dull, heavy, or numbing pain, extending from the back down the lower extremity of the right abdomen to the inner part of the thigh. Great difficulty is experienced in voiding the urine, and many persons afflicted with this troublesome complaint are unable to endure violent exercise; many, when stooping, have danger in assuming an erect position. Having had numerous opportunities for forty years of testing the virtue and efficacy of this medicine, and with the advice of those who have experienced the good effects of it, I now respectfully submit it to the public, believing that it will be generally beneficial. The few certificates I publish are from this immediate neighborhood, and can be referred to at any time.

CERTIFICATES.

SIR—This is to inform you that I was very much affected with violent pain in the back, and great difficulty in voiding urine. I was recommended by Mr. McClintock to take some of your Diuretic Pills, which I did, and was perfectly cured, and I have not felt any of the complaint since, being eighteen months.
MERCER COUNTY. JOHN STEWART.

DR. SARGENT—Sir: I have to inform you that I believe I owe my life entirely to taking some of your Pills. I have been taking medicine for several days from my physician without effect, being confined to bed and in great agony, when my husband applied to you and was told by you that I had the gravel. I took the first dose as you directed, and experienced relief, and my disorder left me after taking the remainder.
ALLEGHENY. MARGARET BEAT.

DR. SARGENT—I was for a long time afflicted with what I thought to be rheumatism in my back, so that when I stooped down I could scarcely right myself again. I was advised to try your Pills, which cured me, and I have not felt it since. I have since given a great many away to others, who have found the same benefit.
J. WILLIAMSON.
CROWN'S BOTTOM INN.

SIR—I was for a long time afflicted with a pain in my back. I was advised by Mr. Williamson to try your Pills. He gave me some, which completely cured me. I have since obtained two boxes, and gave them to others in our town with the same effect, and if you had charged ten dollars for them I would have paid it cheerfully.
LEWIS HUMISTON.
AKRON, OHIO.

SIR—I have been afflicted with the complaint described in your papers for the last five years, during which time I have tried everything I could hear of without effect, till I met with your Pills. I have now taken half a box, and want more to continue taking them, as I feel better now than I have felt for four years, and I have no doubt the next box will cure me.
J. MILLER.
ALLEGHENY.

SIR—I have been troubled with back ache for four or five years, so that at times I could not rise up or lie down without pain. I took part of a box of your pills, which completely cured me, and I have been at perfect ease ever since. I do, therefore, confidently recommend them to others.
PETER CRUMPTION.
ALLEGHENY.

DR. SARGENT—SIR: I take this opportunity to state that your Diuretic Pills are the most effectual medicine for the back ache I ever met with. I can confidently recommend them from experience.

NOTICES.

☞OFFICE OF THE PACIFIC & ATLANTIC TELEGRAPH COMPANY OF THE UNITED STATES.
PITTSBURGH, September 19th, 1867.

CARD.
To the Citizens of Pittsburgh.

The Board of Officers of the Pacific and Atlantic Telegraph Company of the United States have great pleasure in announcing the opening of their lines to Cincinnati and Louisville.

In accordance with the equity which they believe should prevail between this corporation and the public, in all charges for the transmission of messages over the wires of this Company, they have ordered reductions of rates, from those heretofore customary, between Cincinnati, Pittsburgh, and intermediate points; and have also directed a reduction to be made in the rate to New York.

The consistency with which this Company have endeavored to serve the public, not only by a prompt transmission of messages, but by endeavoring to reduce the cost of telegraphing, entitles them to once more request from this community a continuation of that patronage which has so far cheered the Board of Officers in their endeavors to establish a permanent independent Telegraph Line; which, while profitable to the Stockholders, from the good will of the public, should be equally remunerative to the public, from a steady cheapening of the cost for the transmission of messages.

AUCTION SALES.

COUNTRY LOTS, of TWO AND THREE ACRES, AT AUCTION.—THURSDAY, September 26th, 1867, at 2 o'clock, there will be sold on the premises, on the arrival of the 1:10 P. M. train from Allegheny, 12 LOTS OF GROUND, on the property of Mr. Waters, on the Beaver road, between Fleming Station and Fixmont, about ten minutes' walk from Fleming, a station on the P., F. W. & C. R. R., six miles from town, reached by rail in 20 minutes. These lots are two and three acres each, on level, fertile ground, easy of access by good hard roads. Many good dwellings are being erected in the vicinity, the neighborhood is becoming populous, and exceedingly desirable for suburban homes. The particular attention of mechanics, clerks, and others engaged in the city, is directed to this sale, where a two or three acre lot may be purchased for the price of a small undesirable town lot. Frequent trains, at convenient hours, enable those engaged in the city to reach home at this point easier and quicker than to many portions of the town. The advantages to be derived from residence here, will be apparent by attending this sale.
Terms—One-third cash, balance in two years.

THE COURTS.

Court of Quarter Sessions.

WEDNESDAY, Sept. 25.—Court convened at 10 o'clock A. M., Hon. J. P. Sterrett presiding.

CROSS SUITS.

The cases of the Commonwealth vs. Wm. Haley, Isabella McKeown, and William McKeown, charged with having committed an aggravated assault and battery on John Lynch, who appeared as prosecutor, and a cross suit against John and Nora Lynch, which were on trial at adjournment on Tuesday, were resumed. The testimony in this case was of a decidedly conflicting nature, each party endeavoring to swear their case through. Lynch had the "first swear," but the advantage gained appeared to be overbalanced by the Haley party, who had the greatest number of witnesses. The jury rendered a verdict of "not guilty" as to Nora and John Lynch, and William Haley, prosecutor, pay the costs; and in the other case found Haley guilty and acquitted the McKeowns. Sentence deferred.

NOT GUILTY.

The jury in the case of the Commonwealth vs. John Donnelly, George Taylor and Nicholas Keich, charged with malicious mischief, returned a verdict of "not guilty and defendants pay the costs."

FELONIOUS ASSAULT AND BATTERY.

Robert alias Bunty Gillispie was arraigned on a charge of felonious assault and battery, Thomas W. Ellis prosecutor. This case arose out of a cutting affray which occurred on Fulton street, on the night of the 15th of September, an account of which was published in the GAZETTE of the following day. The defendant plead guilty, and was sentenced to pay a fine of six cents to the Commonwealth and undergo an imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for a term of three years.

LARCENY.

George Langdon, charged with the larceny of a tongue chain of a wagon on oath of Ephraim B. Trimble, of Hampton township, was next arraigned. It appears that the wagon of the prosecutor was standing in the road some distance from his house, and that previous to that time the prosecutor had borrowed from the defendant a chain of a similar character which he had broken, and the defendant wanting to use his wagon went to Trimble's wagon and took the chain, which he afterwards returned, but not until after the prosecution had been commenced. These facts having been brought out in the evidence, the District Attorney stated to the Court that he did not wish to continue the case further as there was no larceny in it. The Court instructed the jury to return a verdict of "not guilty."

A FELONY.

Michael Leonard was next arraigned on a charge of felonious assault and battery, alleged to have been committed on the night of the 26th of June, in the Borough of West Pittsburgh, on the person of the prosecutor, Patrick Graham. The facts of this case have been published in the various city papers, and it will be remembered that the prosecutor was at a drinking saloon in the Borough above named, and that he there met the defendant, with whom he had some words. After leaving the house and while proceeding towards his home, he was attacked by some one and shot in the head, which for a time it was thought would prove fatal. It appears that two shots were fired, one of which took effect in the head, passing through the hat at the back part of the head and passing out at the front, and the other just grazing his forehead. The prosecutor after the second shot discovered that it had struck him, and he then cried murder several times. While standing there he heard some one jump down from the bank behind him and ask in a jeering tone what was the matter with him, and he recognized the voice as Michael Leonard's, and in a moment afterward he saw Leonard pass by him and run along the path to his home, which was but a short distance from where the shooting occurred. Two witnesses were examined on the part of the Commonwealth, when Court adjourned.

Common Pleas Court.

WEDNESDAY, Sept. 25.—The Court of Common Pleas convened at ten o'clock A. M., Judge Mellon on the bench.

John Gangswisch vs. Gottleib Faas. Action in debt. An order for the sum of $188. Verdict for defendant.

Philip Hinckler vs. Henry Myers. Action in debt, for balance of purchase money on a horse. Verdict for plaintiff in the sum of $23.

Court adjourned until ten o'clock Monday morning.

Police Items.

AGGRAVATED ASSAULT AND BATTERY.

An old resident of Duquesne borough, named Christian Krepps, made oath before Alderman Mullin, of the Fourth ward, Allegheny, charging one Gotleib Hiller with the above offense. The prosecutor alleges that the defendant threw a paving stone at a child of his, whom he supposed to be guilty of some imaginary offense, which missile striking it upon the head, inflicted a serious and painful wound. Officer Roberts arrested the party complained of and he was held for a further hearing to-day in the sum of one thousand dollars.

A DELICATE AFFAIR.

David Doughenberg, whom it appears resides in the Third ward, Allegheny, "loved not wisely but too well." A Miss Mollie Williams conceived an affection for him, and he became enamored of Miss Mollie's fair charms. Frail humanity gave way under the influence of passion, and, as a consequence, Miss Williams found it necessary to seek the interposition of Alderman Mullen. The alleged offender was arrested by officer Bolster, and notwithstanding protestations of innocence, he was held in five hundred dollars bail to appear for a hearing on Monday next.

ASSAULT AND BATTERY CASES.

John Fry was arrested by the same officer and arraigned before the same magistrate charged with assault and battery, on oath of William Bierman. The parties are engaged in a shovel factory on Chestnut street, and on Tuesday had a dispute which resulted in the defendant striking the prosecutor with his fist. Upon a hearing of the case the difficulty was amicably arranged.

John Mansperger was also held to keep the peace toward H. W. Buhorst.

James Curtin was next arraigned on two charges of assault and battery alleged to have been committed on Justice Barker and Blasius Rauch, of South Pittsburgh. The defendant, as appears from the evidence, was in South Pittsburgh on the 28th of August, drunk and disorderly, and conducting himself in a boisterous manner in the house of Blasius Rauch, whom he assaulted. Rauch made an information against him before Justice Barker, who, having no officers present went to make the arrest himself. He first required him to desist from his disorderly conduct, which he refused to do, when the Justice arrested him, and in attempting to take him to his office, was assaulted.

The jury returned a verdict of guilty in both cases. The sentence in the case in which Rauch was prosecutor, was that he should pay costs of prosecution, and a fine of ten dollars to the Commonwealth, and he should pay costs of prosecution; a fine of thirty dollars to the commonwealth, and undergo an imprisonment of one month in the county jail, in the case in which Justice Barker was prosecutor.

ALLEGED ADULTERY.

Mary McManus, now an inmate of the county jail, where she is confined on a charge of assault and battery, requested Alderman McMasters to pay her a visit, which request the Alderman of course complied with. Upon arriving at the prison Mrs. McManus informed the Alderman that a white married woman named Mary Book and a colored man known as Benjamin Kane, the former of whom had a husband in the city and the latter a wife, were living and cohabiting together as though they had been legally united in the bonds of matrimony; in a court located in the Third ward of this city. Mary Book is a decidedly handsome looking woman, whose complexion would indicate a free use of "Night Blooming Cereus," or some other perfume, and her paramour, a fair faced Octoroon. They were arrested and held for a final hearing this afternoon upon charges of adultery.

A THREATENING CASE.

An ungallant individual named Valentine Schepner had a difference with a certain Miss Maria Spence, on Wednesday, and was indiscreet enough to let his angry passions rise to such an extent that he threatened either to take Maria's life or do her bodily harm, and he did not care a "row of pins" whether he obtained satisfaction on the spot or not; have it he would, sooner or later. Miss Maria became terribly exercised in consequence of these threats, and appealed to the majesty of the law. Valentine was arrested by officer Richards, and being unable to give bail was committed by Alderman Taylor, of the Fifth ward, for a hearing on Saturday next.

ASSAULTED AND BEATEN.

While Thomas C. Clements, a resident of the Seventh ward, was on his way to church last Sabbath, he observed a number of well grown boys abusing a member of the feline species, and rejoicing over its sufferings. Like a good humanitarian, he expostulated with them upon their conduct, whereupon one of the party named Andrew Patterson, struck him repeatedly and compelled him to beat a hasty retreat. Warrant issued.

NUISANCE.

Andrew Bishop, residing on Veto street, Second ward, Allegheny, was informed against for keeping and maintaining a nuisance in the shape of a hog pen. The informant was Mr. Amos Boker, who swore that the stench arising from the pen was too intolerable to be borne. A summons was issued and a hearing in the case will be had to-day.

DISCHARGED.

John Wolls, whose arrest upon a charge of interferring with a number of colored workmen on Liberty street, was noticed a day or two since, had a hearing before the Mayor, yesterday, when he was honorably discharged, it appearing that an ex-policeman named George Strain, was the guilty party. The latter being present was arraigned, and his guilt being clearly made out he was mulched in the sum of twenty-five dollars and costs.

License Revoked.

A rule having been issued on Owen Gallagher to show cause why his license to keep an eating house on the corner of Webster and Townsend streets should not be revoked, and he failing to appear, the license was revoked and annulled, and the Court decided that he should not be entitled to license for twelve months hereafter. It was at this establishment where the difficulty occurred between Gillespie and Ellis, for which Gellispi was sentenced to three years in the Penitentiary, and it was alleged that he kept a disorderly house, and a place where loafers congregated.

Attempted Fraud.—A resident of Brownsville, Fayette county, by the name of T. B. Murphy, instituted a charge of false pretence against a man named Peter Keifer, yesterday evening. The complaint was made before Alderman McMasters, and sets forth that the defendant had from time to time procured groceries and other household commodities from the prosecutor, to the amount of some three hundred dollars, by representing that he had a considerable sum of money on deposit in this city. His representations are said to have proved false, hence the suit. Keifer took passage for this city on one of the Brownsville packets yesterday, and an officer was sent to intercept him.

Being Improved.—A force of workmen are engaged plating the piers of the St. Clair street suspension bridge with heavy sheet copper for the purpose of protecting the stone work from injuries which would necessarily occur from the Spring and Fall freshets.

False Alarm.—The alarm of fire at a late hour on Tuesday night was false. It originated from box No. 42, corner of Federal street and North Common, Allegheny. False alarms are becoming entirely too frequent in our sister city.

Released.—Michael Walsh, who was recently committed to jail by Alderman Taylor, on a charge of larceny, was released from prison on Wednesday, bail having been entered for his appearance when called upon for trial.

GENTLEMEN—We ship you, to-day, by railroad, a safe of your make, for a few repairs. The safe went through the disastrous fire that occurred here on the 6th of March last, burning our store and warehouse, and we are glad to inform you that the papers taken out of the safe after the fire were not harmed in the least. We did not suppose any safe, especially so small a size, could possibly stand such a fire, and when we discovered the papers all safe and sound, we were agreeably disappointed. We will give you an order for a large size safe when we get into our new store. Truly yours,

CITY AND SUBURBAN.

THE STATE FAIR.

Second Day a Complete Success.

IMMENSE CROWD OF VISITORS.

Weather Delightful—Barring the Dust.

Wednesday, the second day of the Exhibition of the State Agricultural Society, opened up quite as auspiciously, the weather considered, as the first, and from early dawn until late in the evening Iron City Park was thronged with humanity, like unto bees in a hive. The Citizens Passenger Railway, although they had in use every car at their disposal, failed in furnishing sufficient transportation for the thousands of people who flocked to the scene of attraction. We started to the grounds early, embarking on a car on which were packed, sitting, standing and hanging by toes and fingers, not one less than one hundred persons, and upon arriving found the Park already pretty well filled. Preparations for display in the various departments were hastily completed, and by noon the Fair had assumed its fullest dimensions.

The weather was pleasant, in respect to temperature, but while the breeze was cool and invigorating, it stirred up such clouds of dust as made, we must say, some portions of the Park decidedly uncomfortable. Relief, in some degree, was afforded by watering carts, in the sprinkling of the roads through and adjoining the grounds.

Governor Geary, attended by a number of prominent gentlemen, visited the grounds during the day, after having made the round of the public institutions in and about the city.

To-day will doubtless be the greatest one of the Fair, and the attendance, large as it was yesterday, will doubtless be greatly increased.

We continue our notices of articles on display:

WHEELER & WILSON SEWING MACHINES.

Wm. Sumner & Co., the agents for the Wheeler & Wilson Sewing Machine, have a fine display of fancy sewing of all kinds, executed by this widely known and highly appreciated invention. These evidences of its adaptability to the purpose are the most satisfactory that could be given, and hence they are examined with the greatest scrutiny by the host of ladies attracted to the booth of the agents. The work performed by the tucking machines operated by a little girl ten years of age, attracts much attention, as also do the fancy worked handkerchiefs, slippers, &c., on exhibition. Other machines may be as good, and give as general satisfaction, but the Wheeler & Wilson, from its heretofore well demonstrated merits, and with the enterprise and energy of the manufacturers in keeping pace with the latest improvements, sustains the firm hold it has obtained upon the appreciative portion of the public. The highest degree of perfection has been reached in its construction, and the range of sewing that it will do, embracing, as it does, fabrics of every kind and quality, entitles it to the world wide distinction it has obtained, and which was recognized by the jury at the Paris Exhibition, who awarded Messrs. Wheeler & Wilson the first gold medal over eighty-two different contributors. William Sumner & Co. are the western agents, and their establishment is located at No. 27 Fifth street, where Fair visitors are invited to call.

JARVIS, HALPIN & CO.

In Mechanics' Hall will be found the splendid exhibition of the firm of Jarvis, Halpin & Co., practical and experienced plumbers, steam and gas fitters, No. 35 Fourth street. The display consists in part of fine marble wash stands, marble bath tubs, elaborately furnished and equipped; iron enameled wash stands and sinks, highly polished copper boilers for ranges, and other articles of the trade. These gentlemen deservedly occupy a high position in trade circles, and they take especial care that all the work turned from their establishment will prove not only satisfactory to the purchaser, but likewise highly creditable to their own reputation as finished mechanics. They deal in gas fixtures of all description, steam fittings, sheet lead, lead pipe, brass work, pumps and hose. Their store is well filled with manufactured articles, and they execute orders for anything in their line on the shortest notice, and in the most superior style of workmanship. To city or country readers desiring anything in their line, we cheerfully commend this house. Do not fail to see the exhibition at the Fair, as it will repay close examination.

THE PITTSBURGH STEEL WORKS.

We took occasion yesterday to make special reference to the display of Anderson, Cook & Co., of the Pittsburgh Steel Works, as illustrating the rapid and very marked advancement which has been made, particularly with reference to the locality of Pittsburgh, in the manufacture of steel. The fact can not be disputed that the quality of this material now produced at the works of Anderson, Cook & Co., samples of which are on exhibition, is even superior to that for which but a few years since we were entirely dependant upon English manufacturers. To Pittsburgh capitalists, among them Anderson, Cook & Co., is mainly due this important achievement, and the credit must therefore be awarded them. The Pittsburgh Steel Works, located on Ross street, in the Second ward of the city, is the largest establishment of the kind in this country, and its full capacity is required in order to supply the demand for steel. The articles on exhibition have been manufactured from the finest quality possible to produce, and consist of a belt saw forty-two feet long, a marvellous production, buggy springs, alarm bells, penknives and surgical instruments of the finest possible description, together with edge tools, such as axes, hatchets, drawing knives and other articles for carpenters use. The manifold purposes for which steel is required renders the facility with which it is now manufactured all the more important, and Anderson, Cook & Co. do well in giving fair visitors opportunity of observing the state of perfection which has been arrived at here in Pittsburgh in its production. We regard the articles and the bar steel exhibited by them among the most substantial evidences of the importance of Pittsburgh as a manufacturing place, and as indicative of what our future will be with a corresponding rate of advancement.

LOCKHART & FREW.

This enterprising business firm make a highly creditable display of saddles, harness, trunks, hose and belting, which will be found in Domestic Hall. The workmanship of all the articles on exhibition is of the most superior quality, and elicit from visitors the highest praise. The establishment of the firm is located at No. 102 Wood street, between Diamond alley and Fifth street, where will be found a large and varied stock of traveling trunks, valises, saddles, harness, hose and beltings. Dealers who buy to sell again will purchase advantageously from Messrs. Lockhart & Frew, as their prices are most reasonable. Visitors at the fair should not fail to call and examine the display, for it is well worthy of of inspection.

LAFAYETTE STOVE WORKS.

Messrs. B. Agshutz & Sons, the proprietors of this popular foundry and stove works, are represented in Domestic Hall by a very fine and liberal display of stoves, grates, grate fronts, fenders, and other articles in that line. The assortment of cook, parlor and office stoves is very large and embraces many well and favorably known styles. The "Union Range," one of the most perfect we have ever noticed, is specially worthy of notice. It combines several improvements which render it peculiarly attractive to the ladies. It is so arranged as to convey all the smoke of the fire and fumes of cooking victuals into the stove, having the water back, quite simple in construction, easy to set and not likely to get out of order, and having the oven in such position as to be convenient and handy. After the "Union Range" is fully understood and its merits appreciated as they should be, it will be in lively demand, and the already large sales of the firm engaged in its manufacture will be greatly increased. As a fuel saver the Habermehl patent elliptic grate, on exhibition, will be found to merit all the fame it has acquired. The Lafayette stove works are very complete and extensive, and the proprietors are fair dealing and clever gentlemen. Their office is at No. 214 Liberty street and corner of Ohio and Sandusky streets, Allegheny. Strangers in the city will do well to favor the firm with a purchasing visit.

HARDWARE, CUTLERY, &C.

Strangers in the city attending the Fair should bear in mind the hardware and cutlery establishment of James Bown, at No. 136 Wood street, long established and well and favorably known throughout the West. Recently material improvements have been added, increasing the capacity both for manufacture and sale, so that it will now compare favorably with any kindred establishment outside of metropolitan cities. His present stock in trade is complete in all respects, and country merchants will find in renewing their favors very decided convenience in making up their orders, the necessity for looking over the whole stock in order to select what articles may be desired being obviated by the enlarged sales rooms. A specialty of the house consists in the superiority of the articles in the way of firearms offered, and sporting men cannot fail in securing a rifle or shot gun suited for all purposes, while the revolving pistols in store consist of all the latest improvements and of the choicest description.

PROF. N. SHAFFER'S SPECIMENS.

In Art Gallery will be found a collection of the chirographical specimens of Professor Newton W. Shaffer, the proprietor of the very excellent Commercial College, St. Clair street. There is something about Mr. Shaffer's penmanship which will commend it to all business men. It is full, free, flowing and graceful. We searched in vain for any illshapen letter or irregular movement of the pen. Every line is drawn with precision and the shading is faultless. As an artist we believe Mr. Shaffer has no superior in this country, and certainly his display at the Fair is very creditable. At his well conducted business college, his system is taught by Mr. Shaffer and a corps of able assistants, and parents having sons to educate can do no better than by sending them to this institution. During to-day Mr. Shaffer will be in attendance to execute off hand specimens of his writing to all who call, and we may observe that he challenges competition from any quarter. The specimens on exhibition embrace only a few drawings, the remainder being fine epistolary writing, off hand business penmanship, ornamental text lettering and general chirography. Let no reader fail to call and see the booth of Mr. Shaffer, and be convinced that when wielded by such a clever artist, the pen is truly mightier than the sword.

LAMPS AND OIL.

Mr. G. Porzel, at No. 90 Smithfield street, was among the pioneers in the lamp business, which has become so important, arising out of the adaptation of coal oil as a means of light, and has kept pace with public requirements in this regard, naturally resulting in the building up of a very large trade. At his establishment housekeepers, or others requiring them, will find an assortment of lamps, as full and varied as can be found at other lamp stores in the city, comprising every sort of lamp manufactured, including late inventions. His burning oils have sustained the highest reputation as to safety, a matter of the highest consideration. Thoroughly understanding his business, having the advantage of large practical experience, those favoring him with their patronage may rest assured of securing the best articles obtainable in the way of lamps and oil. His productions are not on exhibition at the Fair, but strangers in the city should not fail, if they desire anything in his line, to call at his store, No. 90 Smithfield street.

WATER AND GAS PIPE.

The National Foundry and Gas Pipe Works, William Smith proprietor, located in the Ninth ward of the city, at the corner of Carroll and Smallman streets, have become justly celebrated in the matter of gas and water pipe, and specimens of this kind of production are on exhibition near Machinery Hall. Mr. Smith has secured some very valuable patents, by which he is enabled to manufacture all kinds of pipe from two to sixteen inches in diameter with great facility, and at much more reasonable prices than heretofore. He has supplied our city during the past season with five miles and Allegheny City with seven miles of water pipe, and has a contract to supply the city of Chicago with five hundred tons for the new water works recently there constructed. Notwithstanding the very large capacity of his works, some fifty tons daily, Mr. Smith has found it impossible to supply the rapidly increasing demand, and he was obliged this week to refuse an order for fifty thousand feet. His establishment is one of the largest of the kind in the country, and a very material addition is to be made. Visitors should satisfy themselves of the marked improvement which has been accomplished in the manufacture of pipe by examining the specimens on exhibition by Mr. Smith.

THE WEED SEWING MACHINE.

Major R. H. Long, one of our leading spirits in the Sewing Machine controversy, as agent for Weed's celebrated invention, has his booth elegantly and most tastefully fitted up, and has located it a little north of the main stand, exhibiting his machines, with specimens of workmanship, to the best possible advantage. The Weed is the latest invention in the Sewing Machine line, and unquestionably possesses material advantages, as indicated by the very general favor with which it is meeting with the public. Simplicity, thoroughness of construction, adaptability to all kinds of sewing, and the simplicity of its execution, are among its merits. These machines could have no more earnest advocate than Major Long, and visitors cannot but appreciate the opportunity offered by him for the most satisfactory demonstration of the superiority he claims for them. The rotary feed machine is greatly improved and is unequalled for light manufacturing or heavy family sewing, passing over uneven surfaces without change of speed or stitch, and operating on any material, no matter how fine or how coarse. This machine, at the Paris Exposition, received the first prize as a family sewing machine, which speaks volumes in its favor. The value of sewing machines must be admitted by all, but judgment is required in making a proper selection, all not being equally valuable, although each may possess rare points of merit. Purchasers therefore should make a careful and intelligent selection, and thus secure a machine combining the greatest amount of usefulness. Major Long claims the Weed to be such, and any one desiring to purchase should call upon him at his booth on the Fair grounds, or at his place of business in the city, No. 112 Grant street.

WHITEHEAD AGAIN.

Again passing through the art department we encountered a crowd gazing admiringly at Whitehead's superb specimens of photography, which in point of truthfulness to life and fineness of execution, by no means suffer in comparison with other pictures exhibited in competition. In the crowd were those who seemed to be good judges of the merits of the portraits, and the universal verdict was that Whitehead's handiwork was as good as the best. We have no more deserving young artist in our midst, and the large share of custom which he attracts is but the legitimate result of earnest and energetic application to business. Strangers should not fail to profit by their observations at the Fair, and accord him not only due meed of praise, but evince their appreciation in a material way by securing portraits from his establishment, located in the city, at No. 70 Fifth street.

SOAPS OF THE FINEST QUALITY

Are exhibited in Domestic Hall by Reed & Johnston, whose manufactory is at the corner of Liberty and Baldwin streets. Soap of all kinds is manufactured by this firm, and the samples displayed must satisfy any one of its superior quality. All descriptions are shown, from that devoted to the most common use up to the most delicate toilet article, and the display is as pleasant to look upon as it is agreeable to loiter amidst the delightful aroma which distinguishes the booth of Reed & Johnston.

SMITHSON, PALMER & CO.,

of the noted Emporium, 55 and 57 Fifth street are characteristically energetic during the fair excitement, in the presentation of rare inducements to visitors to purchase of the unusually varied assortment of goods they have on sale, at prices, too, which cannot but prove astonishing to the staid people of the rural districts, accustomed as they are, ordinarily, to buy where business is done on a less rapid scale. The evening sales at the Emporium attract crowds, and these will continue to increase rather than diminish until the close of the Fair. We need not again enumerate the articles to be found at the establishment, as any one who calls there will not fail in finding something suited to the season or his taste.

WILCOX & GIBBS SEWING MACHINE.

We have not noticed these before, but is not because they do not deserve it. Considering the amount and variety of work they perform, we have not seen a neater or more simply constructed machine in the whole exhibition. The shape is unique, being an exact letter G, which happens to be the initial of the inventor's (Gibbs) name. They are adapted to every kind of work from the hemming of a gauze veil, to the binding of a heavy carpet—making the patented twisted loop stitch, remarkable for its firmness and elasticity. In addition to the usual machine sewing, it makes a very ornamental "ladder stitch," suitable for ornamenting shirt bosoms. It also manufactures a beautiful silk braid and then sews it on without any change of parts. A piece of close stitch embroidering is displayed on the album, along side of a rather tough looking piece of work, where layers of pine board, sheet brass and Beaver cloth are all sewed together at one operation, and, well done, too. The pamphlets accompanying it give an interesting account of a hotly contested trial with one of the celebrated "Lockstich" machines, in which the Willcox & Gibbs came off victorious. It also was awarded the first premium at the New Jersey State Fair, last week.

Our enterprising young friends, Carson Brothers, No. 43 St. Clair street, are agents for this city.

WILLIAM SEMPLE.

This worthy representative of our mercantile community, whose establishment, with the large amount of trade attracted to it, is a monument to his energy, probity and high order of business capacity, affords strangers in attendance at the Fair ample opportunity to examine the magnificent stock of dry goods with which his house is kept at all times well supplied. The results which will naturally flow from this will be of mutual advantage those who did not know the fact previously, realizing it in the tangible proof presented, that goods at wholesale can be purchased here with quite as great facility and advantage as in eastern metropolitan cities, where only it had come to be considered, (for what good reason we cannot discern,) country merchants should buy their stocks. The energy and enterprise of such sterling men as Mr. Semple is fast dispelling this idea, and as the truth is made apparent, trade which rightfully belongs here is permanently secured. In the retail way the establishment of Mr. Semple also offers rare inducements to strangers who may conclude to purchase during their stay, and approves in this respect, as also in the case of country merchants, is the ample stock of goods in store suitable to the fall season which is just upon us. The establishment of Mr. Semple is at 180 and 182 Federal street, Allegheny.

THE AMERICAN IRON WORKS

—located in our midst—of larger capacity than any other merchant bar mill on the globe, is represented by the proprietors, Messrs. Jones & Laughlins, by an exhibition of patent cold rolled iron and steel, which originated in the establishment. This production is in extensive use throughout the United States and foreign countries, owing to its great strength and superiority in all other respects. The cold rolled material is well adapted to shafting, piston rods, and mower and reaper finger bars. It is produced by the use of powerful and peculiarly constructed machinery, by which cold iron can be rolled and drawn into any of the shapes ordinarily given to hot iron by rollers. The effect of this process is to compress and pack together the fibres of the metal to such an extent as to greatly increase its strength, hardness, elasticity, &c., as has been abundantly shown in experimental tests made by eminent engineers of the United States and Great Britain. By no means the least advantage of the process is that it also produces a highly polished and perfectly smooth, bright surface, and finishes the bar or rod as straight and true as if turned in a lathe or planed. The attention of manufacturers of reaping and mowing machines has very naturally been directed to this cold rolling material as adapted to cutter and finger bars, giving them greater strength and more rigidity and elasticity, and Jones & Laughlins, to meet the requirements of the trade, have engaged in the manufacture of the tools, so to speak, for reaping and mowing machines. The firm also have an approved style of pulley, light, symmetrical and strong, and provided with steel pointed screws; also self-adjusting hangers, of exceedingly simple construction, the bearings being lined with the best Babbit metal.

The firm have the exclusive right to the celebrated "Collins patent self adjusting double compression couplings," which have neither bolts nor keys, and can be put up or taken down with the greatest facility.

Those interested in such matters cannot fail of profiting by an inspection of the display of Messrs. Jones & Laughlins, and their accomplished business manager, Col. H. T. Mann, will take pleasure in imparting such information as may be desired. We may state, as matter of information, and as indicating the appreciation of the productions of the American Works, that during the past year the proprietors have furnished to customers nearly fifty thousand of their patent cold rolled finger bars, required in the manufacture of reaping and mowing machines.

AN IMPROVED CHURN.

In Domestic Hall there is on exhibition an invention which has already worked a revolution in the agricultural districts of the country, and which, when fully understood will be generally adopted. It is, philosophically considered, nothing more than the old dash churn; but the power is given in another manner, and all the labor is obviated. We refer to the H. P. Wescott patent adjustable dash churn, exhibited by Messrs. Thomas H. Bingham & Co., who are the agents and manufacturers for this neighborhood. These churns are worked by an adjustable dasher on which a short lever is attached to work by the hand, there being a steel spring attached which furnishes nearly all the required power. It is cheap, durable, and can be worked by a child ten years of age. We say by all means let our agricultural readers examine this greatest invention of the day.

BOOTS, SHOES AND GAITERS.

In Domestic Hall the visitor will find a stock of boots, shoes and gaiters on exhibition by Mr. James Robb, No. 89 Market street. The display is highly creditable to this pioneer establishment among the shoe houses of the city, and the specimens have been taken at random from his largely stocked store. All the goods kept by Mr. Robb are of the best quality, as an examination of the articles on exhibition will sufficiently demonstrate. There are no less than four hundred different styles of well made and substantial articles of foot covering in his display. Mr. Robb is the only shoe dealer on the ground, and yesterday his goods attracted a large share of attention. Strangers in the city desirous of purchasing anything in this line for fall or winter wear are specially directed to call at the extensive store of Mr. Robb. They will there find not only one of the largest stocks of boots, shoes, gaiters and slippers for men, boys and children, but likewise the most carefully selected and best made. The house does not deal in cheap auction goods, but to the contrary, every article is purchased with a view to render satisfaction to the buyer and prove durable. The prices are very reasonable, and from long acquaintance with the firm we can cheerfully and cordially commend it to the attention of our readers. Remember the place, No. 89 Market street, near the Diamond.

IRON CITY COLLEGE.

We were much surprised though highly gratified to find on exhibition a complete set of Bank Books from one of the regular working banks of the college. These books, which are identical in form with some of those of our regular city banks, represent a portion of the regular banking business done by the students for several successive months, and contains the work of several hundred different individuals, as every student, before graduating, is required to test his skill in the practical management of a set of books made up from original actual business transactions. The great advantage of the system of practical instruction pursued by this college over the old theoretical process pursued by other schools, has made this one of the most popular business colleges in the United States, and increased its patronage to such a degree that it now enjoys a greater patronage than any other college in the State. To understand its great advantages, one has only to consult the opinions of the bankers, merchants and business men of the country contained in its circular, copies of which can be obtained by calling at its college, corner of Penn and St. Clair streets, or by addressing its principals, Smith & Cowley, Pittsburgh, Pa.

ANTHRACITE COAL.

In these parts we claim manifold advantages for bituminous coal, and also that our mines produce the best of any yet discovered. Anthracite coal, however, has its peculiarities, most particularly as an article of fuel in the household, quite as much heat with less consumption being produced, whilst the smoke nuisance is wholly avoided, an advantage which, we should judge, would amply compensate for any reasonable additional cost. Anthracite is plentiful in the eastern part of the State, and with increased facilities of transportation is brought here at a comparatively cheap rate. Mr. William Bingham, of 368 Penn street, has embarked in the business, and has on exhibition anthracite brought from Wilkesbarre, for the inspection of those curious to know its adaptibility as fuel as compared with bituminous coal.

FINE CARPETS.

The display of carpets, rugs and mattings made by Messrs. McCallum & Bros., No. 51 Fifth street, still continues to attract much attention from visitors. The carpets are rich and elegant, and would beautify a Sultan's floor or an Emperor's parlor. Many of the specimens are beautiful in pattern, while some of the rugs rival rich oil paintings, from which they could not readily be distinguished at short distances. The establishment which makes this creditable display is among those to which Pittsburghers point with commendable pride, and is one which contributes largely to the commercial importance of the city. The firm occupy one of the finest iron front buildings on our prided Fifth street, and have an immense stock of seasonable carpets, oil cloths, rugs, mats, mattings, stair carpet, rods, trimmings and everything peculiar to the trade. They have peculiar facilities for the purchase of goods direct from the importers, and take pleasure in sharing, by liberal prices, their advantages with purchasers. The attention of wholesale and retail patrons is especially directed to a late invoice of choice foreign Brussels, Velvet and Ingrain carpets which has just been received, and in which all the latest novelties are introduced. The fashions in carpets and floor coverings are variable and housekeepers should be cautious in posting themselves on the prevalent styles.

CLOTHING READY MADE.

The representative house in this department of trade in our city is that of J. D. Ramaley, 336 Liberty St.—a fact which we would impress upon Fair visitors, although from the wide reputation of this establishment this may be unnecessary. Doing a large business, Mr. R. necessarily keeps up his stock to meet the demand, which at this season is usually brisk. That at present in store is all that could be desired, suited to all tastes, as to style of garments and quality of material, both for men and boys. The stock also embraces all other articles pertaining to a clothing store, all in the greatest variety. We would advise all inclined to purchase clothing or other articles pertaining thereto, to call at Ramaley's. They will find it pay.

WASHING COMPOUND.

In Domestic Hall will be found on exhibition specimens of Jackson's Universal Washing Compound, which is rightly classed among the great labor savers of the age. It is a preparation which greatly lessens the labors of washing, and will prove a valuable auxiliary to the labors of our wives and daughters. It saves at least five hours in twelve hours washing, and renders the work very easy. It is also very valuable for scrubbing purposes and is particularly recommended for the cleaning of fine paints, as it leaves a bright polish and removes all foreign substances with ease and rapidity. Orders for this very valuable compound may be left at the booth where it is represented, or at grocers and druggists generally, or at the office of the manufacturers, Messrs. George R. Slater & Co., No. 59 Fourth street. From actual use we can recommend the compound in the highest terms to our readers. It is free from lime and contains no injurious or poisonous substances.

SLATE MANTLES.

The display of Messrs. Weyman & Bro., 79 Smithfield street, agents for the enameled slate mantles, continues to attract much attention in Domestic Hall. These manufactures will prove specially inviting to persons contemplating improvements in their dwellings or the erection of new buildings. The mantles are very beautiful, and from experience they are pronounced as durable as genuine Italian marble. They are a product of this State, manufactured from superior slate stone and enameled in the most deceptive manner to imitate Brocatel, Red Pyreneese, Porphyry Sienna, Verd Antique, Egyptian, Spanish and other desirable styles of marble. They are cheap and economical, and we can imagine no prettier ornament for the parlor, dining room or chamber. At the office of the firm will be found a large assortment of mantles of all sizes and descriptions. Visitors are respectfully invited to call.

FANCY GOODS.

In Domestic Hall the great centre of attraction is the magnificent display of Abraham Davy, of Niagara Falls, in the way of fine opera fans, Indian bead handiwork, moosehair ornaments and other attractive articles. Mr. Davy has consented to dispose to purchasers, at reasonable rates, his choice collection, and ladies should make a note of this fact. For party fans this is just the place to purchase, as we were shown the prettiest and wickedest little feather breeze coaxers we have ever seen. Mr. Davy is the exclusive proprietor of this description of goods and they cannot be found at any of our stores. The prices are very reasonable and no visitor should quit the Fair grounds without bringing away either a handsome pincushion elaborately worked with beads, or one of the beautiful fans with a bird pinioned in captivity in the centre. Any person on the grounds can direct you to Mr. Davy's booth for every body has been there to admire the goods.

KNIFFIN MOWING MACHINE.

This machine, claimed to be the best mower in the world, is prominently exhibited among the large display of agricultural implements. It is manufactured by the Kniffen Mowing Machine Company, Worcester, Mass., and is constructed so as to answer for one or two horses. After three years' trial the single mower has become an "institution" on New England farms, and is the only really practicable and successful one horse mower that has ever been built. The double mowers have proved equally satisfactory, their simplicity, compactness, lightness of draft and easy execution commanding admiration. Of their peculiar points of excellence we note that the wheels are higher and lighter than those of other machines, and both wheels are drivers; the castings are tubular, securing greater strength and lightness; there are but ten bolts, independent of the cutter bar, while other machines have as many as forty; the shafting is but twenty-eight inches; gearings of more perfect adjustment; and lightness of draft, a very great desideratum. The prices average from $115 to $135.

DISPLAY OF MESSRS. GRAFF AND HUGUS.

We cannot urge our readers too earnestly to pay the display of Messrs. Graff & Hugus, the well known stove, grate and range manufacturers, an extended visit, as they will there find articles which cannot fail to prove attractive and interesting. This firm is represented in Domestic Hall, where they have placed on exhibition a few of their stoves, ranges, grates, &c., which have contributed so largely towards establishing the high reputation for superior workmanship which the firm enjoys, not only here at home, but throughout our own and contiguous States. We are sufficiently mechanical in our ideas to lend an experience of praise to the several stoves, ranges and grate fronts which we closely examined. First we have the Double Oven Boston Range, which has attained such enviable fame wherever it has been introduced into use. There can be no doubt that it is worthy of the highest commendation, and every one who has given it any study must admit that it is one of the very best ranges in America. The ovens are located above the stove plates, instead of below, as in the old style, and are supplied with mechanical appliances sufficient to regulate the heat to suit every ordinary culinary purpose. It is a fuel saver, requiring very little coal to keep it heated, an advantage which will be appreciated by the economical. The water back is on a new and novel plan and can readily be adapted to either the old style of boiler, or to an astride boiler. The stove plates are so arranged as to throw out much light, giving the range a most cheerful appearance, and serving as an illuminator of no ordinary quality. This advantage will save a great deal of gas, oil or candles, and besides is a most cheerful feature in the range. On the whole we are favorably impressed with the Boston Amble Oven Range and trust our readers will not fail to examine it while at the fair. We also observed the popular Van's Patent Portable Range which possesses many notable and praiseworthy features.

A smoke consuming stove is perhaps an object of greater interest to our readers than any other, as here much fuel is wasted by rolling off through the chimney in the form of a heavy suffocating smoke. Such a stove will be found in the display of Messrs. Graff & Hugus. It is called the "Victor," and is so arranged that every particle of soot and smoke is converted into use by performing its share as a fuel. The stove is a great mechanical invention, and rests its merits on plain philosophical principles. In the upper chamber or top is a conical air drum liberally perforated so as to enable four steady colums of cold air to be drawn in, causing a draft which, coming in contact with the escaping smoke, forces it back into the flames, where it is completely consumed. The stoves are not expensive, and we wonder that they are not more fully appreciated and understood.

The Columbia stove exhibited by this firm is a splendid specimen of a cook stove, and is admirably adapted for family use. They are of various sizes and combine many excellent and economical qualities. The ovens are much larger than the ordinary size and are one of the numerous attractive features of the Columbian stove, which is now in very general use in this neighborhood, and so far as we can learn renders entire satisfaction. The stove requires but little fuel, can be made either very warm or of moderate heat, and is a nice and cheerful companion for a winter's night. To the larger size are attached "kitcheners" and good sized boilers. These attachments cannot be over estimated. But the stove is on exhibition and our readers can call and examine it for themselves. There is also on exhibition the Peerless cook stoves of this firm, which perhaps will prove even more attractive to some as they have their peculiarities and attractive features.

The display of grates is very fine, and such general excellence was observable in all the various styles that we hardly know how to speak of them separately. The Wellman grates will commend themselves to builders and housewners, as they can equally well be set up or down. The grates are all elegantly mounted and finished, and as a collection present a very fine appearance. We observed tile back grates, which are so constructed as to throw the heat square out into the room, instead of up the chimney with the smoke or beneath with the ashes.

Messrs. Graff Hugus & Co. are the agents for the Morning Glory furnace stoves, which are very beautiful and cheerful, and the Monitor warm air furnaces. The latter is just the thing for heating churches, chapels, school rooms and public buildings. Our space will not permit any description of the other attractive manufactures at Messrs. Graff & Hugus' department, and in conclusion we recommend all those desirous of purchasing anything in the line to favor the firm with a call at their large and commodious warerooms, Nos. 206 and 208 Liberty street. They will find a large stock on hand for the coming winter demand, and the prices, either wholesale or retail, most reasonable.

W. W. WALLACE.

This well known Pittsburgh manufacturer (we may use the term) would be the last to let pass the opportunity of placing on exhibition his productions, knowing well by experience the material advantages reaped thereby. His Steam Marble Works have for many years been regarded as among the established "institutions" of the city, and his fame in matters in his line of business extends beyond our State. He is not confined to any particular branch of manufacture, but devotes himself to whatever new improvement comes within his sphere, thus contributing largely to the development of many new and successful inventions calculated to enhance the comfort and general good of mankind. Fair visitors in viewing the articles exhibited will gain but an indistinct idea of his business, but in what there is, sufficient to entitle him to rank among the live business men of the day. In the special matter of marbleized slate mantles the display must produce conviction as to their great utility. Mr. Wallace is the sole manufacturer of these mantles, and at prices which will place them within the reach of all. Their beauty and unquestioned great durability are sufficient recommendations, and they are well worthy the attention they attract.

In connection with Mr. Wallace's display there is also a hay rake, of the most simple construction, so simple indeed that this peculiarity alone is sufficient to recommend it; but as is characteristic of all inventions of this description, the matter of simplicity is fully equalled by the utility and adaptability to purpose. This rake is not in the least complicated, can be operated by any one, and must be seen to be fully appreciated.

ALARM BELLS.

Visitors at the Fair have heard and admired the sweet tones of Patterson's patent brass plated wrought steel gong bells, which merrily ring from morning till night to demonstrate their own excellence. These are certainly great inventions, and it is a wonder they were not brought into use many years ago. They are especially intended as alarm and signal bells for the farmers, to be used in conveying information to persons about the farm. The bells on exhibition are very clear, and can be heard from two hundred to six hundred acres, while it is impossible to break or crack them. They are calculated so that the farmer will be able instantly to communicate the every day orders to all parts of the premises without the annoyance and loss of time (which is money) now suffered in "hunting the boys," or waiting till they come in sight, of itself a great source of pleasure and advantage, to say nothing of the property and perhaps life which may be saved in case of accident, sickness, or the presence of unwelcome or suspicous visitors when the men are in the fields. No farmer's wife will be without one when she realizes how promptly it will call assistance in time of need, and by its very tones frighten away suspicious intruders, too many of whom now prowl through the country. Country gentlemen will find them indispensable. All complete, ready to screw against the side of the house, barn, or other support, they are sold at $8 00, $12 00 and $18.00, according to size. Orders may be left with Messrs. Beckham & Long, exhibitors, at the Fair, or at their warehouse, 127 Liberty street; with A. J. Hagan, 181 Water street; or may be addressed, accompanied by the cash, to A. Patterson & Co., patentees and manufacturers, Birmingham, Buchanan P. O., Pa. Agents for their sale are wanted.

JOHN B. HERRON & CO.

In the way of stoves and furnaces this well-known Pittsburgh firm exhibit some marked improvements, which attract general attention. Among others we noticed the Henderson soft coal furnace for bituminous coal, and specially adopted for the use of this material as fuel, which is made to produce a very large and radiant fire; also the folding door Franklin stove, a universal favorite; also the Idaho cook stove, having the capacity of the largest ordinary bake ovens; also the Rival cook stoves, heavy plates, exclusively for coal. The collection also comprises model stoves for halls, offices and parlors, of different sizes, and admirably adapted to the purpose, the ornamental and useful characteristics being most happily combined. The business manager of the firm, Mr. Charles Formes, has the happy faculty of imparting to the inquirer all desired information, in a most acceptable manner. Visitors to the Fair will find him a genial gentleman.

ROOFING SLATES.

The exhibition of roofing slates made by Mr. Thomas W. Parry, of the Peach Hill Slate Quarry of Pennsylvania, fully sustains the high business reputation of that gentleman. It will doubtless be in place to make note here of the fact that he slated the monster grain elevator on Liberty street, which is not only one of the largest, but likewise most artistic jobs ever finished in the United States. Mr. Parry attends to the slating of residences and public buildings in plain or ornamental styles, at the most reasonable prices and in a durable and satisfactory manner. The slates are of the very best quality, as the specimens at the Fair will demonstrate, and are in various handsome colors. Orders for the slate will be promptly shipped to any part of the country. We take much pleasure in noticing this display, inasmuch as Mr. Parry is one of our most enterprising citizens, and the slates in which he deals are calculated to do credit to the State outside of its limits. The address of the firm is at Pittsburgh, and persons desiring anything in this line should remember to favor Mr. Parry with a call or order.

A GREAT INVENTION.

Parties wishing to procure State, County or district rights for the manufacture and sale of one of the most useful inventions of the age, are directed to the great Irwin Double Washing Machine, which will be found on exhibition in Domestic Hall. It is one of the best machines of the character we have ever examined, and faithfully performs its labor. The chances for making money out of rights are very fair, as they are to be disposed of at very liberal rates. Any further information can be obtained by calling at the booth where it is exhibited.

LIVINGSTON & CO.

This business firm are extensively engaged in the manufacture of steam and gas fittings, loose butt hinges, refined malleable and gray iron castings generally, and have on exhibition in Mechanics Hall specimens of their workmanship which reflect the highest credit. The castings are perfect and present a fine, smooth and beautiful appearance. Where a firm is so well and favorably known to the business community, we feel that it is hardly necessary to add one word of testimony in their behalf. They are particularly careful that all work entrusted to them is executed in the very best style, and will prove entirely satisfactory to their patrons. The most finished and skilled workmen are employed and all the manufactures of the firm bear the impress of superiority. They make cotton and woolen machinery to order at the slightest notice, and pay special attention to the wants of the steam and gas fitting trade. Their work will in use prove more durable than that furnished by the east. The works of the firm are located at the corner of Washington avenue and Sedgwick street, Allegheny, where all orders will be received. Persons interested should not fail to examine their display, as the time thus spent will not be wasted.

OLIVER M'CLINTOCK & CO.

This well known and enterprising firm is represented in Domestic Hall by a remarkably fine display of rich and elegant velvet, Brussels, Brussels tapestry, ingrain and domestic carpets, and a profusion of handsome rugs and other articles belonging to the business. This house is the regular successor to the pioneer in the carpet trade of this neighborhood, W. McClintock, Esq., and for many long years has sustained a very high reputation. The commodious and palatial warerooms of the firm are located at No. 25 Fifth street, where will be found a large and judiciously selected stock of all the styles and qualities of carpets in vogue in the country. Recently the senior member of the firm visited Europe and perfected arrangements for the introduction here of rich foreign carpets as soon as they make their appearance. The advantages of the fact will be readily perceived, as the house is always up to changes in the fashions and styles, and can offer the trade inducements equal to those held out by rival houses of the East. The firm have a large trade here which can bear full testimony to the general excellence of the stock kept constantly on hand, and nowhere else in the city can better selections be obtained at more reasonable prices. We bespeak for them a call from strangers in the city, and ask close examination of their display at the Fair.

ELLIOTT & SONS,

of 108 Market street, largely contribute to the general display in the floral department, the most attractive to the largest proportion of visitors to the Fair. This firm rank first among florists, and for this reason to them was assigned the task of arranging and devising this feature of the exhibition. How well they have discharged their trust any one passing through Floral Hall, or viewing the aquarium, can judge. We think the Society officers have reason for congratulation at having entrusted this branch to such able and experienced hands. Too much space would be required to give in detail the display made by the firm of Elliott & Sons on their own behalf, although we feel they are justly entitled to a more extended notice. We confidently commend the Messrs. Elliott to those interested in floral matters or garden ornaments as entirely worthy of patronage.

J. R. AND A. MURDOCH.

These celebrated horticulturists occupy a fair share of space in Floral Hall for the display of their products, comprising the rarest in that department. None engaged in this branch have bestowed more care and attention in bringing forth floral beauties than the Messrs. Murdoch, and that their efforts have been successful proof is afforded in the results placed on exhibition. In our hurried observation we found much noteworthy, and could well account for the hesitancy with which those who lingered in admiringly gazing upon the beauties of nature fostered by the husbandman gave way to others, as the ever constant stream of visitors crowded along the avenues of the Hall. The Messrs. Murdochs' display consists in part of fine cut flowers, tastefully arranged, fancy baskets, also fruits, such as grapes, pears, &c., most tempting to the taste in a double sense.

MESSRS JOHN HALL & CO.

Messrs John Hall & Co., the proprietors of the Valley Forge and Plow and Agricultural Works of this city, have acquired an enviable reputation through the excellence of their manufactures throughout our entire country. Their plows, and mowers and rakes are favorably known to almost every farmer in the land. Long and successfully engaged on agricultural implements which they have made an exclusive specialty, the firm have reached great perfection in their business, and are continually making improvements which are calculated to lessen the manual labor of the agriculturist and to increase the productions of the soil. We are glad to say that this reliable firm has had local and state pride sufficient to contribute to the Fair a very large display of plows, mowers, rakes, cultivators, cider presses and other implements of the farm and garden. They occupy a large portion of the ground set apart for this branch of the exhibition, and the display has been universally admired by those interested to know the advancement made by the inventive genius of this age. We have classed together several of the articles on exhibition which we conceived to be especially worthy to note for the benefit of our readers.

PLOWS.

The plows on exhibition combine all modern ideas and practical improvements, and the farmer will find difficulty in selecting from among them, as all have their peculiar features and advantages, while each is equal to any manufactured in the country. Perhaps the Iron Clipper plow, steel pointed mold board and land side, with wrought iron beam and handles, is especially worthy of notice. It has been used with much success and appears to be amply capable of performing its work in tip top manner. We also think that the Central Lever and Southern steel plows are particularly deserving of attention, and we trust our agricultural friends will examine them closely, as they cannot be too well posted on this important implement. The working men employed at the works of Messrs. Hall & Co. are all skilled and thoroughly understand their business. They are familiar with it in every department, and hence the best articles are turned out of the works, of which the implements at the Fair are specimens selected at random.

UNION MOWERS.

Messrs. Hall & Co. have on exhibition a highly finished Union Mower, an implement which stands deservedly high in the estimation of the agricultural world. It has been thoroughly tested in five successive harvests, and the universal verdict has been in its favor. The firm have determined to manufacture six hundred of the Mowers for the coming harvest of 1868, and orders should be sent in as soon as possible. Among the chief points of this implement may be briefly stated: It has a loose pole and vibrating frame, with the heel of the finger bar hinged direct to the main frame, which has been demonstrated as a great advantage over the double finger bar style. The knife bar is in front of the wheels, which permits the operator to observe the cutters without turning, and enables him to raise the bar to pass obstructions without drawing his attention from the team, while his position is rendered much safer. In folding the finger bar the operator uses but one hand, and a spring catches and secures the bar in a safe position as soon as turned or folded. The Union Mower has advantage in the construction of the seat, which is mounted by the operator by means of metallic springs on the rear of the pole and its connection.

The Union Mower ranks among the best and most rapid geared machines manufactured and can be drawn either by oxen or horses. The peculiarities of the Union Mower are such that the operator can elevate both the crank and the cutters at the same time, and thus pass obstructions between the wheels as high as the axle.

A lever for elevating the cutter bar is of vital importance, and in the Union Mower it is so combined and arranged that the driver can raise with ease and facility the cutter bar to pass obstructions, while by slightly pressing the foot on the pedal, the cutter bar can be held or retained at any desired elevation above the ground. It can be instantly thrown out of gear with the foot of the driver when his hands are engaged in directing the movements of the team.

The patented draft arrangement, as used exclusively in the Union Mower, is believed to be very superior, since it prevents side draft, relieves the drag of the cutter bar on the ground, and enables the cutters to pass in and out of dead or water furrows with both ease and safety. The Mower is certainly a great invention, and as its manufacturers, Messrs. Hall & Co., are among our most responsible business men, farmers can safely depend upon receiving implements which will prove even better than represented at the time of sale.

NEW CIDER MILL.

Messrs. Hall & Co. have also on exhibition a new cider mill, called the American Cider and Wine Mill, which is a new invention. The principle upon which the mill works will readily recommend itself to everyone. It differs from the portable mills in crushing the fruit instead of soaking as is the usual method. It is warranted to work one fourth more cider out of the same amount of apples than any other mill in use.

In the display we notice several patent hay rakes, which are worthy of examination. The Sprout Compound steel horse rake is a desirable article, having an independent spring to each tooth, and being mounted on wheels. The "Valley Forge" Rake and Union Rake are both praiseworthy implements. We cannot dwell any longer on the highly creditable display of Messrs. Hall & Co., but trust our readers will all visit that department while at the Fair. The office of the firm is at the corner of Pitt and Liberty streets.

BOVARD, ROSE & CO.

This enterprising carpet firm, which enjoys a large share of the trade in that line directed to the city, have on exhibition in Domestic Hall a very fine display of rich foreign and American carpets, rugs, matting. Their collection, in Domestic Hall, embraces a very large assortment of the richest velvet, Brussels, ingrain and medallion patterns, with a large collection of rugs, &c. Among their velvet patterns are some of the most expensive ever brought to Pittsburgh, and the same remarks will apply to their more costly rugs, some of which look like exquisite pieces of tapestry, such as might come from the celebrated Gobelin looms themselves. This firm are among the most extensive carpet dealers in the United States. Their new carpet warerooms are No. 21 Fifth street, between Wood and Market streets, where they have just opened a most extensive stock of fall good. They import their own goods, and this, with the facilities which their eastern connections give them for getting the very best home manufactured carpets at the lowest prices, enables them to offer superior advantages to their customers. They also display an endless variety of Oil Cloths, Mattings, Window Shades, Table Covers, Piano Covers, Rugs and Mats, Stair Rods, &c., &c.

BAILEY, FARRELL AND CO

The firm of Bailey, Farrell & Co., No. 167 Smithfield street, have on exhibition a fine display of block tin and sheet lead. This is one of the principal firms in our city, and the articles on exhibition at the State Fair will give but an indefinite idea of the extent of their business. They are the largest manufacturers of sheet lead and lead pipes in this city, in addition to which they deal extensively in plumbers' materials, brass and iron cocks, steam guages, steam pumps, and iron pipes, all of which they sell at the lowest market prices. Sheet lead and lead pipe of any desired length and thickness are manufactured to order and can be obtained at their establishment on the shortest notice, and on terms that cannot fail to render satisfaction. They have on hand a large lot of block tin of which that on exhibition is a fair sample. We can cheerfully recommend this firm to our readers as being a reliable one and worthy of the extensive patronage they at present enjoy. Persons desiring anything in their line will find it to their advantage to give them a call and examine their extensive stock, as we are confident that they cannot be better suited in the city.

THE GREAT ATTRACTION.

The great attraction of the Fair is the beautiful hall on the lower part of the grounds, which is occupied entirely by America's small fruit king, J. Knox. As we enter we find tempting grapes in enormous bunches clustered about the doorway and gracing the walls on either side. The grapes are splendid specimens of the vineyard, and are of the most famous species. Then we have several baskets of healthy looking potatoes and vegetables; those beautiful cut flowers, hanging baskets, floral designs and every thing which fine taste could suggest, and botanical skill execute. In the centre of the hall is the "Eldin Wilde," which is the prettiest feature of the entire Fair. It was arranged by our gallant citizen, Gen. J. S. Negley, (who, by the way, is as clever in the garden in time of peace as he was in the hottest of the battle in time of war,) and is worthy miles of travel to see. Passing beyond it, a thing much easier to be said than to do in the face of its irresistible charms, we arrive at another very fine display of grapes, small fruits and vegetables, together with a large and varied collection of garden, flower and vegetable seed.

The display of Mr. Knox is certainly worthy of his enterprise. It is admirably arranged, and exhibits the same good taste which is observable at the great Knox Fruit Farm and Nurseries, and likewise at the city office, No. 137 Liberty street.

In our next we shall speak at greater length of the display, especially of the numerous important agricultural implements he has on exhibition.

RIVER NEWS.

The Louisville Courier, in speaking of the Great Republic and Richmond, says that they are the representatives of rival cities. Now this is a great mistake. It is all folly for Louisville to think of competing with Pittsburgh in building boats or doing anything else, and the sooner her newspapers and people find this out the better.

The R. C. Gray sunk on of her barges at Blue River Island on Saturday last.

The Louisville Courier, of Monday, says: As we stated in the Courier Saturday, the river is at a low stage, and more unnavigable condition than at any time since 1865. There was a low stage of water in 1862, but not so low as even now by six or eight inches. The Courier was not in existence at that time, and no reliable information was published either in reference to river or other matters then. Now the river is four inches higher than it was a few days ago, and, in comparison with 1856, it is ten or twelve inches above the low water mark of that date.

In our remarks of the stage of water in 1856 the printer somewhat marred the text. In referring to the closing of the canal in 1856, we wrote, just as plain as we always write, and we are a right plain writer, "that during the same year (1856) the canal was closed two months." The printer closed said canal "seven years." What would have become of Cincinnati, Pittsburgh, Wheeling and all the other little cities above the falls if the canal had actually been closed seven years! The theme is far too harrowing and demolishing to them for our sensitive mind to loiter dwell upon to hurt their feelings, and we dismiss it.

We clip the following from the Cincinnati Enquirer, of Tuesday: The Nashville Packet Company are organizing their forces for the fall and winter campaign in the Nashville trade. Capt. Wise is looking for a boat to take the place of the Rowena in the line. It is understood that Capt. John Ferrell, who arrived here yesterday from his home in Mound City, Illinois, will have command of one of the boats.

The Right Way, a new stern-wheel boat, built at Wheeling for the Red River trade, arrived here yesterday. She will load here for some point below, but it is not decided where.

The Spray arrived from Pomeroy with a good trip. She will probably be placed in the Portsmouth trade during low water, in place of the Boston.

The Marine Association held an important meeting yesterday, which was well attended. The bill proposed by the committee appointed by the St. Louis Convention, in regard to some needed changes in the laws of Congress regulating western navigation, was before the Association, and was freely discussed. They didn't get through with its consideration, and another meeting will be held this morning.

The best judges of river matters say that there is now more danger than ever that the channel of the Mississippi will make its way permanently behind the island opposite Alton.

The New Orleans Crescent, of Wednesday, says: We are pained to learn that a telegraphic dispatch was received yesterday from Mr. Ross, announcing the death, by yellow fever, of Capt. Shute, commander of the steamer Cuba No. 2, while on her trip from this port to Shreveport. Capt. Shute followed to the grave the partner of his bosom only a few days ago. Two children are thus left by this sad bereavement orphans. We understand that several other cases had occurred on the boat, but no further particulars were given in the dispatch.

The Cincinnati Gazette says: Capt. Henry U. Hart, formerly of the Mariner, yesterday purchased of the administrator of Capt. Bradley, deceased, the steamer Lawrence. The terms have not transpired.

Several parties were negotiating for the charter of the Spray yesterday. The first was the Louisville Mail Company, to take the place of the Buell, and the second was the Portsmouth Company, to take the place of the Boston. At latest advices neither of these parties had secured her.

A St. Louis telegram, under date of Monday has the following: The Northern Line Packet Company are sending small boats to the Upper Mississippi—the Shreve, James Means, and Little Giant. The river is still falling. So far there is no improvement reported from the late rains above. The Centralia should be here to-day from the mountains. Her officers think the Gallatin and some other boats may be compelled to winter above. Captains McPherson and Entriten's new boat was launched last Saturday at Carondolet. She will be named Bismark.

The Mary Swan was sold at Sheriff's sale, at Memphis, on Friday, and brought in the neighborhood of $4,800. She was lately engaged in the Memphis and Evansville trade.

During the last session of Congress an appropriation of ten thousand dollars was made for the purpose of providing for a thorough and reliable survey of the Tennessee river from Chattanooga to its mouth. A preliminary survey was made recently, by several gentlemen, under the charge of Major General Weitzel. The principal obstructions near Chattanooga were the Ross Tow Head, and Burris' bar, opposite the center of Williams' Island, and about fifteen miles from Chattanooga, by river, both which are low water obstructions. Next come the Tumbling Shoals, so-called because of the great fall in the water at this point, about a mile and half above the Suck. The characteristics of the Suck are well known, and need no description. Below the Suck is the Pot, where the water whirls around at high stages of the river in eddies, and presents the appearance of a boiling pot. Below this is the Skillet, a low water obstruction, and below this the Frying Pan, which is similar to the Pot, and only troublesome in high water. On the return of the party General Weitzel expressed the opinion that the removal of the obstructions will require far less labor and therefore a much smaller expenditure of money than has been previously supposed.

We clip the following from a late St. Paul paper: Wm. R. Huff, who has been in the employ of the Northwestern Union Packet Company, as agent at Hastings, was arrested in this city on Wednesday night, charged with the embezzlement of $500 from the company. The embezzlement having taken place in Dacota county, and Huff being in this city, complaint was made by Commodore Davidson to Justice Bell, of West St. Paul, by whom a warrant was issued, and placed in the hands of Constable Joseph Minney, also of West Saint Paul. The latter came over into the city yesterday morning and called officer Heck to his assistance, who arrested Huff at the Merchants' Hotel. Huff had upon his person at the time of his arrest $180 in cash, a bank check for $64 and a note for $80. He was held in custody till yesterday morning, when he was taken over the bridge and an examination had before Justice Bell, by whom he was held to bail to await a trial.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, WEDNESDAY, September 25, 1867.

Gold is very firm at 143⅝. The market opened at 143¼, and fluctuated between 143⅝ and 143⅜. It is evident that without the Government will sell larger amounts from its surplus, the market will not yield for some time. The increased daily demand for legitimate business purposes, as well as a desire to speculate for a rise, will keep up the premium, perhaps, during the present season. Governments were firm in the morning, but since the same rate for carrying is charged as for other stocks with lower prices in prospect, the market suddenly declined from ¼ to ⅜ per cent., with few purchases.

The stock market is firmer, with a decided advance. Erie, New York Central, Cleveland & Pittsburgh and Fort Wayne are all from 2 to 3 per cent. higher; the feeling at the stock exchange is very bouyant.

Mining shares are nominally unchanged; the cheaper shares are quietly bought up by parties well informed. Local money market works a little easier, but before Monday little accommodation can be expected from the banks.

—The Financial Bulletin has been discussing the gold premium question, and comes to the following conclusion: "Upon the whole, then, while political complications from abroad might possibly induce a limited and temporary drain of specie from this side, yet outside of those contingencies there appears to be no warrant for anticipating a high premium on gold during the next three or four months."

—The Stonington (Conn.) Bank is said to be a sufferer from "financial irregularities." The cashier found himself unable to pay a demand for money from the London and Providence Railroad, of which he is the treasurer; this demand was repeated, and the cashier left for New York "on urgent business." The directors are now engaged in investigating the accounts of the bank, which are said to be very much "mixed." The liabilities of the institution are said to exceed the assets.

—The New York correspondent of the Philadelphia Ledger, under date of Monday, writes as follows:

The financial sensation this forenoon was the reported robbery of the American Express Company of between $60,000 and $70,000 by one of their employes, named E. C. Gillette. The robbery was said to have been perpetrated on Saturday night, while the Montreal express train was on its way to this city, Gillette ripping the bags which had been entrusted to his care. One of the bags thus rifled is said to have contained $19,000. On the arrival of the train at Thirty-first street Gillette was missing, and the detectives were at once put on his track. This afternoon he turned up voluntarily, and the officers of the company deny that the affair is as bad as it was originally represented. Only $20,000 were taken, and that, they say, can be recovered. "Gillett was on a spree only, and did not mean mischief," though that is cool comfort to the parties who may be the losers by his operations.

Yet another (semi-official) report is that Gillette, apparently insane, removed $20,000 from the safe. He then went to his hotel, sent to the agent of the company, informed him of what he had done, and finally returned all the money he had taken.

—says the Chicago Tribune, of Tuesday: Financial matters were somewhat irregularly reported to-day, though the most of the banks united in pronouncing the drain of currency to the interior more active than for a day or two. At some institutions there was a good demand for moving cargoes, though, in the aggregate, it was less active than on Saturday. Some small remittances of currency were received by express—mostly from St. Louis. There is a gradual increase in the offerings of business paper, and in some quarters the discount market is working closer. At all the institutions there is a close scrutiny of signatures, and favors are restricted to depositors in good standing. The bank rate is firm at 10 per cent. In the open market good outsides are done at 1@1½ per cent per month.

—The Cincinnati Gazette, of Tuesday, says: The demand for money was not pressing today, and in some quarters it was reported quite light, but taking one day with another, the banks have as much paper offered to them as they are able to take and the character of the demand is virtually too much in the shape of renewals for a strictly healthy market. Currency is daily working closer, and rates of interest are firm at 8@10 per cent. for first class paper. In the open market money is readily taken at 10@12 per cent, on ample security.

PITTSBURGH PETROLEUM MARKET

CRUDE—The market was again very quiet to-day, though, if anything, there is a firmer feeling, which is in consequence of the stock being rapidly reduced, and but little prospect at present of it being replenished soon. There was but a single sale reported, 197 bbls at 13¼, bbls returned. Spot oil may be fairly quoted at 12@13½c; all 1867, at 12@13½c, seller's option, and 12@13½c, buyer's option. It is estimated that the entire stock of crude oil in this market at present, will not exceed one hundred and seventy-five thousand barrels; of this about forty thousand barrels are under contract for 1868, leaving one hundred and thirty-five thousand barrels in the hands of refiners, dealers and speculators. This is certainly a very light supply for this market, as some of our large refineries have capacity for 50,000 to 75,000 alone, and it is this that makes those who hold oil "free footed," hold on like grim death, in anticipation of still higher prices.

REFINED—There was rather more activity in the market for bonded oil to-day, and a firmer feeling, though there is still plenty of room for improvement. We can report sales in three different lots, of six thousand barrels, all for the last three months, and all at 34½c. September is quiet but firm at yesterday's quotation, 32½c, and all October, buyer's option, in the absence of sales, may be quoted at 34½. It will have been noted, by those who read these reports, that the shipments east have been quite large for some days, and are likely to continue for some days to come. This is owing to the fact that there will likely be an advance in freights on the first of October, and our refiners, in view of this, are hurrying forward all the oil they can get ready for shipment.

New York Dry Goods Market.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

NEW YORK, September 25.—Dry Goods market quiet in a general way, although a few large jobbing houses are transacting large business at steady rates, buyers are however, purchasing very cautiously of cotton goods in view of a recent decline in the price of raw material, the decline in cotton, however, seems to be too rapid recently to be followed by any further decline even if we raise a crop of ¾ of a million bales of cotton, but if we only raise a crop based on the shipping list estimate equal to the year just closed, which was 1,500,000 or 2,000,000 millions bales, then the fall is too great and reaction may set in. Hence under existing circumstances it would be bad policy to change the price of cloth essentially, as many leading makes are sold to close up the pause in trade. It is not likely to be of duration, therefore, nor are prices likely to be affected much by it. Fine woolens kept well and sold up at good prices, while other grades more slow at low prices.
